

'Irresponsible'

By JIM ANDERSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today denounced as "irresponsible" the decision by a majority of oil exporting nations to raise oil prices by 10 percent.

Ford said the action by most members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries should remind Americans "of the need to take urgent action" to conserve and develop U.S. energy resources.

He praised Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates, which chose to raise their oil prices by only 5 percent.

Arabs hike oil prices 5-15%

DOHA, Qatar (UPI) — The world's oil exporting countries split sharply today over how much to raise prices. Eleven nations agreed on a 15 percent hike but Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates decided they would not go beyond 5 percent.

In a decision that followed direct contacts with the administration of President-elect Jimmy Carter, Saudi Oil Minister Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani said his country, the world's largest oil exporter, will lift all production ceilings while holding its price increase to 5 percent throughout 1977.

The United Arab Emirates joined Saudi Arabia in the 5 percent limit. The 11 other members of the world oil cartel announced a 15 percent increase — 10 percent effective Jan. 1 and 5 percent July 1.

It was the first major split over prices in the 16-year history of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries and left open the question whether OPEC could maintain its current stranglehold on prices.

Yamani predicted it would be impossible for the 11 nations to sustain their 15 percent increase, and said the expected overall increase would work out to no more than 5 percent.

In Washington President Ford denounced as "irresponsible" the decision by a majority of oil exporting nations to raise oil prices by 10 percent.

Ford said their action should remind Americans "of the need to take urgent action" to conserve and develop U.S. energy resources.

He praised Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates for choosing to limit their increase to 5 percent.

"Unfortunately, however, the majority of OPEC members, citing artificial economic justifications and ignoring the destructive consequences of their actions, chose to take a course which can only be termed irresponsible," Ford said in a statement released by the White House.

— In announcing the limited increase, Yamani said Saudi Arabia expects in return that the West will step up pressure for a peaceful solution of the Middle East crisis and make concrete offers at the North-South talks in Paris which were scheduled to resume after Carter's inauguration.

Andrus, Carter chat in Plains

By CHRIS PECK
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Gov. Cecil Andrus will meet with President-elect Jimmy Carter in private this afternoon, presumably to discuss the job of Secretary of the Interior in the Carter administration.

At 2 p.m. MST Carter and Andrus will confer in the President-elect's home in Plains, Georgia.

The hastily arranged Carter-Andrus meeting is the most solid indication yet that Idaho's 45-year-old governor may leave his job and go to Washington.

Until 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Andrus reportedly didn't have any plans to meet with the President-elect about the Interior job.

Andrus was decorating the family Christmas tree when a long-distance call came from Hamilton Jordan, Carter's top recruiter for presidential appointments.

Jordan's message was simple — Jimmy Carter wanted Andrus in Plains by noon today for a private meeting.

At first the governor told Jordan he didn't know if he could get to Georgia that soon, according to Tracy Andrus, 29, the governor's daughter.

"Mr. Jordan said he understood the logistical problems but said governor Carter would like to have him there if he could possibly make it," the governor's daughter said today.

Shortly after 9:30 p.m. last night Andrus left the Boise airport on a chartered plane and flew to Seattle, enroute to Plains.

Accompanying the governor on the hastily arranged trip to meet with the new president were John Hough, administrative assistant to the governor, and Chris Carlson, Andrus' press secretary.

The Carter-Andrus meeting today is scheduled to last one hour. According to the Carter-Mondale press office in Plains, no other persons are known to be meeting with the two men.

Andrus is the only potential Secretary of Interior appointee to meet Carter today and is the first of the reported Interior candidates to meet privately with the President-elect.

Andrus arrived in Atlanta about 10:30 MST and planned to fly to Plains by noon, according to Gary Catron, special assistant with the governor's office.

Although no press conferences are scheduled by Carter through the weekend or next week, the Carter-Mondale press office in America, Georgia said today the governor probably will announce some cabinet appointments early next week.

Andrus reportedly is one of President-elect Carter's best friends among the nation's governors. Although never actively seeking the Secretary of Interior's job, Andrus has been rumored to be one of the top choices for the Interior post for weeks.

Japanese premier quits

TOKYO (UPI) — Premier Takeo Miki, the "Mr. Clean" who presided over Japan's Lockheed payoff scandal investigation, announced today his resignation as party president today to open the way for selection of his successor next week.

Emerging as the most likely candidate to succeed Miki was his arch rival Takeshi Fukuda, 71, former deputy prime minister and longtime crown prince of the ruling Liberal Democratic party.

The LDP will select a new party president next Thursday. He automatically will become Japan's premier because of the LDP's majority in the lower-house-of-parliament, which will elect the premier Christmas Eve.

Guerrillas against kidnapping

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Self-declared members of a left-wing guerrilla group that kidnapped a high government official announced today they did not agree with the abduction and offered to give away the place where the victim is hidden.

Their message was delivered to the newspaper La Gaceta del Norte in Bilbao. Police said it was being examined in order to establish its authenticity.

The message was signed with the initials GRAPO — the name of the gang of left-wing urban guerrillas who kidnapped Antonio Maria de Oriol y Urduliz, president of the Council of State, six days ago. They have threatened to kill him unless the government frees 15 jailed terrorists by midnight tonight and flies them to Algiers.

Rival guerrillas battle

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Rival Palestinian guerrillas battled with machine guns and rocket-propelled grenades early today at a refugee camp south of Beirut.

Initial reports said at least 15 persons were wounded in heavy fighting near the Chaltia refugee camp, the same area where similar clashes recently claimed an estimated 35 lives.

The clashes underlined the dissent in Palestinian ranks spawned by the guerrilla involvement in the Lebanese civil war and by controversy over apparent Syrian efforts to bring the Palestinians under control.

Swine flu shots halted in US

MAGIC VALLEY — Health officials here halted their swine influenza immunizations Thursday as did others throughout the country, because of concern that the vaccine might be connected with recently reported rare cases of paralysis.

Dr. Wayne Carle, South Central Health District director, said all flu immunization programs in counties here were halted shortly before 3 p.m. Thursday.

Federal health officials ordered a temporary halt of the $135 million nationwide program after reports from four states showed a possible connection between the immunizations and Guillain-Barre syndrome, a rare form of paralysis, United Press International reported.

Robert Medlin, Idaho welfare department, immunization program coordinator, said 94 cases of the disease have been reported in Alabama, Colorado, New Jersey and Minnesota. Of those, 51 received swine flu shots before contracting the disease. Four of those 51 have died.

"Preliminarily, there seems to be an association of an increase in the number of cases of the paralysis than occur normally," Medlin said. "Right now there's not enough data available to know for sure, but until they know more about it, they don't want to give any more shots."

Medlin said 155,000 vaccinations have been given so far in Idaho. Only one man has reportedly contracted the disease in this state after receiving the shot.

Dr. John Mather, acting chief of the state health and welfare department, said today he has contacted about one-fourth of the state's 50 hospitals and has confirmed no other cases of the disease.

National health officials for the Center for Disease Control said the syndrome has a five percent mortality rate, while another five percent of those stricken with the illness, more commonly known as French polio, have some form of paralysis, ranging from minor paralysis to paralysis from the neck down. They emphasized 90 percent recover completely.

Carle estimated about 15,000 persons have received swine flu immunizations so far in the nine Magic Valley counties. No Guillain-Barre cases have been reported here, he said.

Carle said 1½ gallons of an estimated six gallons of the vaccine received in the Magic Valley have been used. Local health officials had hoped to receive about 8½ gallons of the vaccine to inoculate 70,000 persons.

Medlin said the greatest danger to a person stricken with the disease, also known as acute idiopathic polyneuritis, is if the illness hits respiratory organs.

Carle said such persons can use machines that continue breathing to prevent death.

About 400 doctors throughout the state were supplying shots to their patients when the moratorium began, Dr. Medlin said. He said he hopes most of these doctors could be contacted before they gave many more shots.

Mather said he expected most of those doctors had received notice from medical association personnel or "read about it in the press by now."

At least four states have scrapped their swine flu immunization programs because of the discovery of a possible link between the shot and the paralysis.

A senior health official in Hawaii termed the paralysis "scare—the straw that broke the camel's back as far as a viable swine flu immunization program is concerned." He predicted the program is "finished" unless there is a major flu epidemic.

New Mexico also scrapped the program.

"The only way we will restart the program is if there is an outbreak of swine flu," said New Mexico state epidemiologist Dr. Johnathan Mann. (New Mexico reported 15 cases of Guillain-Barre syndrome, none fatal.)

Dr. Alton Cobb, Mississippi Health Department director, said the immunization program has "ended" in Mississippi.

But Cobb said the risk of an influenza is far greater than the possibility of paralysis following vaccination and said the program would be resumed "should flu occur during the period of this evaluation."

In New York, Helen Stone, a health department spokesman, said "It's very unlikely that the vaccination program will be resumed."

Nebraska Health Department Director Dr. Henry Smith said the state's swine flu program would probably resume if federal officials gave the go-ahead but that, except for a few make-up clinics for persons who hadn't received the shots in the initial round, the state's role is almost finished.

The Canadian government also said it was shelving its swine flu vaccination program Jan. 1 and that a moratorium on the shots would be in effect until it can be determined whether it is safe to continue.

Lawrence Cohen, Wyoming state health and medical services administrator, said there is no proof of a link between the shots and the paralysis. The question may be moot in Wyoming where the regular immunization program has been completed but five "make-up clinics" were planned, the official said.

The Public Health Service in Washington, D.C., estimated about 4,000 cases of Guillain-Barre occur in the U.S. each year.

Grace man first known Gem victim of disease

By BOB ZUCKERMAN

Times-News writer

BOUNTIFUL, Utah — A 46-year-old Grace man, residing in stable condition in the Lakeview Hospital here, is the first known Idaho resident to contract a rare form of paralysis after receiving a swine flu shot.

John A. Grace, a farmer who asked not to be identified, says he received his swine flu shot a little more than four weeks ago. Three weeks afterwards, he came down with Guillain-Barre syndrome, a rare disease that causes paralysis of muscles.

"At first, I had a little pain in my legs," John says. "I thought I hurt my back or had the flu."

After the first few days, the man says he began experiencing numbness in his legs. He says he was taken to the hospital, and officials from the University of Utah Medical Center ran some tests on him, confirming he had the disease.

The farmer says he first began experiencing paralysis in his hands and feet. After about two or three weeks, "it gradually reached my elbows," he says.

Now, John says he has subsided, partially caused by painkillers injected into his system. John says. Other than that, he says he has received no special treatment, because the doctors don't know what to do.

Health officials won't make any predictions when he will recover, according to John.

Wilkins 'camped out'

By LORAYNE O. SMITH

Times-News writer

—GOODING — Jim Wilkins, who has the eligibility to take office as Gooding County commissioner is being questioned, said Wednesday he "camped out" in his former theatre building for a week in October to establish his legal residence in District 1.

During that time there was no water in the building at 540 Main St., but according to Idaho Power Co., records electricity has been connected to that address under Wilkins' name the past five years.

Wilkins said during an interview he only slept in the place and he has a "whole houseful of furniture" there stored in the former auditorium.

He didn't attempt cooking since there was no water, but he had a portable gas furnace.

His wife declined to help him establish his legal residence there, he said, preferring to remain in the couple's $60,000 new home east of town. There is a three-room apartment in the basement of the old theater, but Wilkins refused to list it as a "rathole."

During his week's stay here he said he slept in a bed in the former lobby area. He is currently remodeling this 1,100 square foot area into living quarters.

"I have never stated that I am presently living in the building," Wilkins said, "but I am in the process of remodeling it into a three-bedroom home and intend to live there during my term of office."

On Monday, S. A. Kolman, Jerome attorney representing a group of citizens, asked the Gooding County Commission to declare Wilkins, Nov. 2 election invalid because they claim he never actually lived in the old theater building.

Holman told commissioners he was unauthorized to reveal the names of any of his clients, except that of Floyd Urie, who is spokesman.

Archie Walker, Bliss, has contacted the Times-News about the eligibility issue, but other persons have requested their names be withheld because they fear reprisals.

Ex-ag secretary predicts higher loan rates for farmers

BOISE (UPI) — Former Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz predicted Thursday higher loan rates to farmers and higher target prices on commodities in the coming year.

Butz, in Boise for the Potato Growers of Idaho annual convention, said, "The prospects are good there will be a higher loan rate," adding such policies are "bad because they further remove" the U.S. farmer from the export market.

He said higher target prices would have a negative effect because "we're announcing to the world what our price is then everybody underseals us and we get what is left."

Butz said there will be "tremendous pressure" on the Carter administration to adopt such measures, adding, "I don't think with world food production prospects as they are these measures are in the best interests" of U.S. producers.

He said the Carter administration, Butz said, "The Democrats have to do something better than those chintzy Republicans did when they were in office."

He predicted the Carter administration will be pressured to maintain a "strategic reserve" of food grains which Butz said, "under any other name is still a surplus."

Butz said he opposed such measures because "they get government back into the commodities business" making it "a primary or at least a secondary market."

He said while he was in the cabinet he succeeded in "getting government out of the commodities business." As a result "the farmer's income is in the marketplace — not in the government," he said.

On the export market he said, "as long as we remain competitive in price our export market prospects are good."

Turning to the sugar beet market, Butz said, the 62-cent pound of sugar "was the worst thing that could have happened to the sugar industry," because it reduced sugar consumption in the U.S. by five to six points per year.

"Sugar is too cheap now," he said, adding that despite a higher tariff on sugar the price is "still below the cost of production."

He advised sugar beet growers to "tighten their belts for a year or two" because "if we attempt to artificially raise the price it could kill the industry."

Butz said he favors the continuation of the 1973 Farm Act, basically "extended as it is."

He attributed fluctuations in food prices to the cost of processing and distributing food, and "restrictive labor practices" that "limit the output" of workers in the food industry.

Although he has not been consulted on the choice of the next agriculture secretary, Butz said he would like to see Rep. Robert Bergland, D-Calif., named to the job because their views are similar, "that's why I like him."

He described Bergland as "a farmer who knows farming."

The former secretary said his resignation, precipitated by news coverage of a racial slur attributed to him, had "nothing whatsoever to do" with his performance in the cabinet.

Butz said the fact that "some irresponsible members of the press seize on the unusual" will discourage "competent men and women from getting into public life because everytime you turn around you get kicked in the shins."

He said a number of candidates for cabinet positions in the Carter administration have turned down the opportunity "because they wouldn't take the kind of guff you and your family have to take" in government service.

Butz said his resignation had no reflection on his performance "and had nothing to do with my job."

Asked if he would consider a job suggested by Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, as president of the University of Idaho, Butz said he felt his age was prohibitive, although he reminded reporters at an afternoon press conference, "I'm still got a lot of life left in me — I'm the same age as Wilbur Mills and just a year older than Wayne Hays."

President calls for 'rededication'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, in a message to thousands of onlookers at the lighting of the national Christmas tree Thursday, called for a "rededication to timeless values: peace on earth and good will toward men."

With about 10,000 people gathered on the ellipse across the street from the White House south lawn, Ford pulled the switch illuminating the 2,500 ft red lights on the 45-foot Colorado blue spruce. It marked the opening of the traditional Pageant of Peace.

"We combine our celebration of historical events with a personal rededication to timeless values: peace on earth and good will toward men," Ford said.

"Brotherhood among all peoples must be the solid cornerstone of lasting peace. It

Commissioner 'camped out' to establish legal residence

"I have no respect for people who lack courage to let their names be used," Wilkins said.

"These people have a perfect right to question my candidacy, but I contend they are operating like the Ku Klux Klan — hiding behind a mask."

The commissioner-elect said he was advised by his attorney that "if it is my intent to live at that residence during my term as county commissioner, it is legal."

He received the same advice by legal counsel in the Secretary of State's office in October, Wilkins said.

"The law says if one leaves a legal residence but intends to return, it still is your legal residence," Wilkins said.

Under Idaho law you are allowed to have more than one home, but you do have to designate one of your places as your legal residence, Wilkins said.

"Unfortunately, the reapportionment carried out by the county commissioners last January was misunderstood by everyone, including the commission and the county clerk," Wilkins said, and he was certified as the legal Republican candidate for District 1.

After the August primary, which he won, it was discovered that the new boundary which Wilkins said "gerrymanders throughout Gooding" put his home near the golf course on the Shoshone highway east of town into Commissioner District 2.

"As soon as he was advised of the error that his home was not in District 1) Wilkins said he advised County Clerk Margaret Clements, he was changing his legal residence to 548 Main St.

"Nobody said anything about this until after the general election," Wilkins said, "because they thought I'd lose." He defeated Independent Thelma Ferguson and Democrat Bob Fredericksen Nov. 2.

Wilkins said "I have the right to remodel my residence, and it's impossible to live in it while remodeling is going on." However, he said he did "sleep" there for a week in October to establish the legal residence.

He said he currently is in the

Let US oil prices rise to OPEC level, aides say

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Leading Ford administration energy experts are advising Jimmy Carter to let all U.S. energy prices rise to the level set for foreign oil by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson, head of the President's Energy Resources Council, and Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb, say the result would be to make Americans pay the "real" — and sharply higher — cost of such presently regulated fuels as natural gas.

In a news conference, congressional testimony and a 113-page "white paper" for the incoming Carter administration, Richardson and Zarb said Thursday there is no other way to guarantee adequate U.S. energy supplies and the development of new domestic power sources.

Energy questions — including how to handle new OPEC price increases — pose one of the most urgent problems Carter must face after he takes office.

Richardson said the increases — 5 per cent for Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates and 10 per cent for the 11 other OPEC members — will mean a minimum $2 billion out of the pockets of American consumers in 1977.

He said the minimum 5 per cent price boost would mean a surge of $1.7 billion in U.S. dollars spent abroad next year and, at the consumer level, a $2 billion boost in the cost of fuel and other energy related products.

Richardson and Zarb endorsed Carter's proposal to combine many existing energy agencies into a single cabinet level department. But they also warned that Carter must not delay efforts to quickly resolve critical policy issues within the existing bureaucratic framework. "While there is need for energy reorganization, it would be a serious mistake to give this issue excessive emphasis," Richardson said.

Zarb urged the removal of federal energy price controls, coupled with the enactment of legislation to keep energy companies from reaping windfall profits.

Letting natural gas prices rise to a market level equal on a basis of energy content with foreign oil prices would about double the highest price — $1.49 per thousand cubic feet — now approved for new domestic gas, he said.

France to halt sale of N-plants

PARIS (UPI) — France has bowed to U.S. pressure against the spread of potentially dangerous nuclear technology, promising to stop selling nuclear fuel reprocessing plants that can be used to make plutonium for atomic weapons.

The statement issued Thursday said, "The French government has decided not to authorize until further notice the conclusion of bilateral contracts bearing on the sale

France and the United States have been at odds over Paris' promise.

Gunmen lead uncovered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Investigators for the House Select Committee on Assassinations believe they have uncovered a lead to whether a second gunman was involved in the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

House sources told UPI the investigators also feel there are good grounds to further explore other aspects of the Kennedy slaying: the mysterious movement of two travelers from Texas to Cuba through Mexico City immediately after the tragedy Nov. 22, 1963; the CIA's bugging of the Soviet Embassy in Mexico City; and the possibility Premier Fidel Castro had advance knowledge of the assassination plans.

The panel scheduled a meeting today in closed session to consider, and presumably approve, the draft report of its work this year.

Last week the panel approved unanimously a one year budget request of $6.5 million to continue investigating — and perhaps resolve, lingering doubts about — the murders of Kennedy and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

A major political task now before the panel is to convene the forthcoming 95th Congress of need for so large a budget for the coming year.

The sources said they have turned up witnesses who can testify about the bullet found on Kennedy's stretcher at Parkland Memorial Hospital in Dallas.

Some contend this bullet could not have been fired from the Texas School Book Depository by Lee Harvey Oswald.

The witnesses, the informants added, were not questioned by the Warren Commission or by local police.

2. Automatic color control holds fresh tones to the settings you select. After you set color and tint, switch on the automatic color control and the ColorTrak system then maintains color fidelity—electronically.

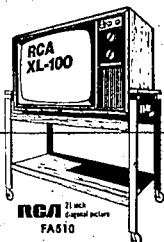

3. Automatic room light picture control senses changes in prevailing room light to keep picture vivid. Picture brightness automatically increases when room becomes brighter, decreases as room grows darker.

4. RCA Super AccuPicture picture tube uses specially tinted phosphors on the tube surface. These tinted phosphors filter room light to reduce reflection and give you a rich, vivid picture.

Even Santa plagued by OSHA regulations

ART BUCHWALD

To: Mr. Santa Claus, North Pole, From: Occupational Safety and Health Administration, Washington, D.C.
Subject: Violations of OSHA Codes.

Dear Sir,
1 — Our inspectors have just completed a study of working conditions at your toy factory at the North Pole and find you in violation of Section C, Paragraph B of Regulation 1908, Article seven, Division Four of Safety Factor 3-H and Rule 105, Registration No. 90087, Appendix Three of Safety and Health Regulations (See Items 64-66, 69 in OSHA Code Book 361); in regard to manufacture of toys and other harmful objects.

2 — To be more specific, our inspectors have discovered that your wife, who helps you make toys, does not have her own bathroom facilities. Under Section Five of Code 345: "A male and female bathroom must be provided on the ground floor of a house engaged in the production of stuffed animals. The bathrooms must each have their own sinks, hot water as well as shower, and must be 43 feet apart from each other with signs clearly marking what they are being used for."

3 — Our inspectors have also discovered that you were opening mail with a scissors. OSHA Regulation 763 specifically says that all business mail must be opened by a mail opener nine inches long and no more than an inch and a half wide. You can get a waiver of this rule by filling out Form 907 A, but since it must be made at least 30 days before inspection it would not apply in your case, and you must pay a fine of $100 per 50 letters not opened in the manner as described in Code Book 19 B.

4 — I also regret to inform you that we have received a very negative report from inspector X in regard to the space allotted to your reindeer. Under Section C of Article Four each reindeer must be tethered in his own stall of 10 feet by eight feet covered with 1.6 feet of hay. In the case of Donner and Blitzen their stalls were only nine feet long and our inspector measured 1.1 inches of hay in Donner's stall and 1.3 inches in Blitzen's stall in contravention of Reindeer Regulation 43.

You can appeal this charge by filling out

OSHA Form 2256 in triplicate and posting it to our branch office in Anchorage. A hearing will be held at which time you will be given an opportunity to explain the shortage of hay in the stall. If the board finds you in error you may not further appeal to our office in Seattle, but you may not have the use of Donner and Blitzen until a ruling in writing is handed down from the Seattle office and signed by our Chief Inspector in Los Angeles.

5 — It has been brought to our attention that on the evening of December 23th you intend to deliver the toys manufactured in your plant by reindeer sled, climbing on roofs and houses and sliding down chimneys. Our safety co-ordinator advises me that if you indeed go ahead with this form of delivery you will commit several infractions that would subject you to fine and possible imprisonment. The first is that if you arrive on any roof with a clatter you will be violating our regulation regarding noise. Any clatter over 1.9 decibels cannot be permitted. (See Index Three, Page 14)

6 — The manner of entering and leaving a house by chimney is of utmost concern to us.

You may descend a chimney providing you are not carrying any type of hat with you, and providing the inside of the chimney has steps one foot apart with a safety railing along the side. Once in the house you may not leave any packages that could be tripped over or broken. The packages must be neatly piled with 1.9 feet between them. Filling of stockings in permitted providing they have the strength in length from the chimney of four prongs per stockings, or twice the weight of the articles to be deposited.

Our inspectors will be out on the night of December 24th and any infractions of the rules will be dealt with severely.

We hope you accept this letter in the spirit it was written, and let me take this opportunity to wish you and Mrs. Claus a very Merry Christmas.

Sincerely yours,
E. Scrooge
Director, Xmas OSHA

Essay on guns

Twin Falls trapshooter Ed Mason recently won the equivalent of $1,776 in merchandise from Trap & Field magazine for his prize-winning essay on firearms in America.

Mr. Mason, an employee of Ace Printing, gave the Times-News permission to reprint his winning essay.

The importance of private ownership of firearms in America's past and future is synonymous with a period of time as 200 years, was won on a period of time as 200 years, have won our independence, fought our way west, fought for the right of freedom the world over, or even walked on the moon, without the private ownership of firearms.

Yes, we have made errors. The early Americans annihilated the great flights of passenger pigeons and nearly so the bison. But, in the last hundred years, through self-imposed taxes on guns, ammunition, sporting goods and license fees, we have brought back from near extinction the wood duck, white-tailed deer, bison, antelope and the wild turkey. Monies made possible through these taxes have created millions of acres of wildlife habitat. It has also opened nearly a million acres of public land for year round recreation. The very future of our wildlife, country and freedom depends on the private ownership of firearms. Would the enemies of our country look on gun control as a humanitarian effort or as a weakness? History has proven to us the difference between a free man and a slave is a weapon.

I believe the pen that wrote the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution and the Bill of Rights was guided by the hand of destiny. Let not these documents that have guided us for two hundred years be cheapened or discarded by man or men seeking historical recognition or political advancement.

Saving alcoholics

Alcoholism afflicts one in 20 employees, clouds at least 36 million lives and costs the nation an estimated $12.5 billion annually. The typical working alcoholic is between 35 and 65 and has been with his or her firm 14 years or more.

These and other points about one of the nation's biggest health problems are made in a new book, "Alcoholics and Business," published by American Management Associations.

Because many alcoholics are at their career peaks, business management needs to institute well-thought-out programs aimed at salvaging rather than destroying the potential of the victims, says the author, Joseph J. Follman, a consultant to the National Institute on Alcoholism. About 600 American firms have company-sponsored counter-alcoholism programs and the number is growing, he reports.

The more successful approaches have been to give supervisory personnel some responsibility in helping subordinates who drink, and to discipline them for any lowering of work performance rather than to moralize on drinking.

Saving a person's job and treating his alcoholism should be a social responsibility of the corporation, Follman contends, since many of the pressures and worries "at led the person to drink may have been generated by the job itself."

Medicaid cutbacks worsen inadequate care

Editor, Times-News:

We would like to comment on the proposed Medicaid cutbacks in Idaho. As employees of Idaho Legal Aid Services, we deal with the Medicaid program on a daily basis.

The present level of Medicaid benefits is now inadequate to meet the needs of elderly citizens in our community. Further cutbacks would mean financial disaster for many of these people.

The proposed reductions would have the following effects:

1. We will be forced to file bankruptcies for senior citizens who are unable to pay medical bills. Doctors and hospitals will increase their charges to cover these bills.

2. Presently it is almost impossible for a person receiving Medicaid to find a doctor in this community. A major reason for this is that Idaho pays for services at a rate which is below that charged for other patients. More cutbacks would only increase this problem.

3. People who are out from the Medicaid roles will be forced to rely on the county welfare fund. The Medicaid program is supported by matching federal funds. The county, however, is authorized to support its fund by levying an ad valorem tax on all taxable property in the county. The county taxpayers will be forced to pay for persons applying to the county for aid. Meanwhile, a portion of their federal taxes goes to support Medicaid recipients in other states.

while our residents are denied Medicaid benefits.

4. Some of the proposed cutbacks may be illegal, and will force the taxpayers to finance costly litigation challenging the reductions.

5. In human terms, our elderly citizens deserve an opportunity to live healthy and dignified lives after their working years are over. It is heartbreaking to see needy elderly residents of our community denied basic medical care.

We would like to see a Medicaid system in Idaho which will meet the medical needs of those who are no longer able to support themselves.

Idaho Power should pay Pioneer bill

Editor, Times-News:

The letter that Earle E. Etter, Sr. of Jerome has written in protest to the Idaho Power Company, we agree with him 100 per cent.

The only reason why we believe the Idaho Power assumes that the customers should be liable for their debts on the proposed Pioneer Power Plant, is because they, along with the shareholders want to reap in profits, not lose out on them.

I wish we could have someone else pay off our bad investments, or bad business mistakes. Since we can't find a fall guy, or other suckers to dump our mistakes on their laps; we have to pay for our own mistakes. Because of this, it should make us that much wiser....or, hopefully. Some are a glutten for punishment. Someone behind the desk came up with the idea for the construction of the plant, for purposes of their own future fulfillments. Damn it — it does hurt your ego a bit when things don't work out. I always believed a much HIGHER power is in control of a lot of things, to which I'm very thankful for. And I don't mean the Idaho Power.

They don't have to lose out. They can do just like others do...sell the equipment, or materials, and etc. In other out of state power companies who could use it for their purposes. If we have so much power that we have to think a power plant has to be built to give to other states, why then can't we keep our air we breathe fresh and clean? Let others worry about it.

If they, the Idaho Power Co., know any of the scriptures they say they believe in, then let this brother love and honesty towards each other as humans show through. Anyone can be rich, but honest, can't one? I do hope others will also write to the IPUC and let them know we the people are sick and tired to be taken in, and be after the IPUC on this matter. Let them know how we the customers feel and then, only then the IPUC won't allow the Idaho Power to weasel out of this mess they put themselves in. Also, I believe our Governor, or senator should talk to them. And I hope that they the Power will have our (customers) best interest at heart, and not their (shareholders) interest, for a change.

It is very essential that you all out there get in on this. It takes a small spark to ignite a flame, but a roaring fire can wipe out a forest.

Since Mr. Etter spoke up to what we ALL are sick and tired about, then how about helping out instead of thinking it is useless, but only know how to complain on the matter. Let's put our thoughts on paper so the IPUC can help us, and stop using our mouth just to talk.

Also, I can't understand why we are always being raised for the power we use is still the same. Just so the shareholders can get a profit on their investments. If they are running out of their spending money then let them invest in something else. If it wasn't for us, the customers, they wouldn't be where they are now. This is something else we should consider.

Inmate says he can't get legal aid

Editor, Times-News:

Why aren't the court procedures and the practices of attorneys followed more closely by the news media?

As an inmate in the Idaho State Penitentiary for the past three years, I have noticed how the courts in Ada County operate. What we have is a few people acting as dictators to others. For instance, we have a fairly good law library here and a few inmates who know the law fairly well. These inmates spend months on preparing a motion for the Courts of Ada County, with the proper statute quotations and case laws, just to have these motions denied, outright, by the judges. As a rule, the inmate will be released, or even dead, long before his case is ever heard by the Court. If the case is appealed to a higher court, the lower court judges have little fear, as they know that most higher courts will send the case back to them for a re-hearing, at most.

What I am getting at is as long as the news media doesn't show any interest in the courts and their actions, the judges are free to do just anything they wish to do and the — with the laws.

If an attorney is appointed to represent an inmate, he is generally an attorney who is trying to get a judgeship or some favors from the higher members of the courts and he isn't going to hurt his chances of getting up higher on the ladder by fighting for a convict.

All of this mess falls back on the taxpayers of Idaho, as they are paying these kind of people, over and over again, for nothing. An honest business person would go broke real soon, by making mistakes, but not the people who run the State of Idaho, as they have the taxpayers to fall back on.

Here's a good example of the dictatorship going on in the County of Ada:

Since the 4th of November, there have been four (4) attorneys contacted in Boise, that I know of. I and some other inmates were going to donate into a fund for an attorney to represent inmates in the court, against some of the illegal practices being done by the present administration here at the prison. Even though the attorneys knew we could win in court, they backed off. Why? I would venture to say they were told to "leave the administration alone," I am wondering if maybe someone told them they wouldn't get any more court-appointed cases if they took our cases.

I am in hopes that maybe some of your taxpayers will respond and ask the news media to cover all court proceedings and publish the facts.

Just looking back on all of the years I've wasted in jail, if I had known then what I know now, I could have gotten a plush office, a new car, a fat salary, and thousands of dollars to throw away. I should have gotten in with the government instead of writing bad checks or robbing. I would have all been legal then.

Ballgame over for Kissinger

By BERNARD GWERTZMAN

© N.Y. Times Service

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger returned home Sunday, bringing to an end his unique era of airborne diplomacy.

At 1:54 Sunday afternoon, the blue, white and silver Air Force 707 jet swooped under the heavy clouds and touched down at Andrews Air Force Base. A larger than usual group of State Department officials and reporters were there to honor the secretary, whose indefatigable stamina had made him a legend at Foggy Bottom.

He chatted with some friends, spurned the TV microphones then entered his limousine with his wife and drove off to watch on television his favorite team, the Washington Redskins, battle for a playoff berth against the Dallas Cowboys.

Three intensive, headline-dominating years of shuttling around the world, to the Middle East, Europe, the Soviet Union, China, Latin America and Africa were over. But the flight from London was surprisingly uneventful.

The "Woodcutter" as the Secret Service agents identify him in their code, had logged 630,000 miles as secretary — 564,000 of them to 57 foreign countries — and the last was Sunday's return from a 3,600-mile, eight-hour flight from London that ended a five-day trip to Europe.

Kissinger seems to prefer to save any discussion about his often controversial record for his own memoirs after he turns his job over to Cyrus R. Vance on Jan. 20. A proud man who likes his post, he appears not to want to hasten his departure by talking constantly about it. He also seems to find it unattractive to list his triumphs, since he could be accused of being self-serving, and he seemingly finds it almost impossible to admit to any major mistakes.

Kissinger preferred on the flight — as he has on all the other flights in the last three years — to talk informally with reporters, either in his private lounge in the front of the plane, or standing in the aisle in the rear.

There was an attempt at serious affairs of state. The Rhodesian negotiations are said to be coming along; the talks Kissinger had in London have generated some movement and some of his aides will return to that city later this week for more Rhodesian consultations.

The Russians were on everyone's mind. The suggestion was made that it was insulting for Leonid I. Brezhnev to have told President-elect Carter that he would notoment a crisis next year — the reason being that the Russians were not doing this country a favor by avoiding a confrontation. Also, it was suggested that Carter should be aware that the Russians were watching his first moves carefully, and that the United States must move quickly to warn the Russians if they should try to meddle in the Rhodesian situation.

The Middle East, Kissinger says, is ripe for settlement; but this does not mean that a Geneva conference is the best solution, since such a conference would only give the Soviet Union a free invitation to get involved in an area where it has been steadily losing influence.

Kissinger were in charge after Jan. 20 — and he avers that he has no desire to be involved in any policy discussions — there might be simultaneous step-by-step diplomacy between Israel and Egypt and Syria to bypass the Palestinian problem, since Israel will not talk with officials of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

His greatest sorrow, probably is what happened in Indochina two years after the 1973 accords. But even the Korean accord of 1953 would be aware that the Russians were having a comparable cut off of aid and support.

The Air Force stewards opened some champagne, as they had at the end of every mission, and poured it into plastic cups. There were some desultory toasts. The mood was less sentimental or emotional than at the conclusion of several of the Middle East trips when the secretary was returning home with a concrete achievement after considerable effort.

More snafus were taken than usual, as reporters and staff wanted souvenirs. A few reporters startled some of their colleagues by asking Kissinger for his autograph.

Of Kissinger's aides, Peter Rodman, the special assistant who will help him write his memoirs, has been on the most missions, having missed only a few.

Cigarette smugglers fill organized crime coffers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cigarette smuggling — dumping millions of dollars into organized crime coffers — is so prevalent that every other pack sold in New York City comes from an illegal source, experts say.

A Massachusetts official, testifying this week before the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, said that unless the federal government outlaws the contraband cargo nationally, it will abandon the nation to "criminal overlords."

The government panel Thursday made public its report, which found state and local governments lose at least $200 million a year in tax revenues because of the smuggling.

It recommended, however, that "the states, not the federal government, should be held responsible for the resolution of this problem." It said stiffer state laws and more vigorous enforcement should be carried out.

Morris Weintraub, president of a wholesalers' group, said "one out of every two packs consumed in New York City is bootlegged. The underworld has become the biggest wholesaler in the state of New York."

Weintraub, who heads the Council against Cigarette bootlegging, said smugglers have netted at least $750 million in profits on the East Coast alone during the last 10 years.

Physicians work to save Gilmore

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Doctors worked today to save Gary Gilmore from his second suicide attempt so that the convicted murderer can face a firing squad in one month.

Gilmore lay unconscious and critically ill in a heavily guarded ward at the University of Utah Medical Center where he was rushed Thursday after taking a drug overdose.

The 36-year-old killer, depressed by a judge's refusal to schedule his execution next Monday, swallowed "a lethal dose of a barbiturate" one month to the day after his first suicide attempt, and also a month before he is to be shot at sunrise.

Gilmore, already weak from a 25-day hunger strike, developed "aspiration" pneumonia caused by breathing the contents of his stomach into his lungs," said hospital spokesman John Keahy.

'Just dues' given SLA

NEW YORK (UPI) — Patricia Hearst says the six Symbionese Liberation Army members slain in a Los Angeles shootout "got exactly what they deserved—but a fear that the "same thing would happen to me" kept her on the run.

The 21-year-old heiress, recently freed on bail from prison while her bank robbery conviction is appealed, discussed her 19 months as a captive and fugitive in a CBS News interview taped Wednesday at her parents' San Simeon, Calif., compound and shown Thursday night.

Much of her remarks concerned her relationship with her father, Paul G. Hearst, and her mother, Barbara. But her comments about the SLA members who kidnapped her from her Berkeley, Calif., home Feb. 4, 1974, were her most bitter.

She said a taped communication she made during the "SLA" members' trial in a courtroom with police on May 17, 1974, had been "written up for me."

"After what they did to me, there'd be no reason for me to apologize them," she said. "I feel that they got exactly what they deserved in Los Angeles, exactly what they'd asked for, and I don't feel sorry for them at all."

She said one of the dead, SLA leader Donald DeFreeze, known as "Cinque," was a "complete maniac, alcoholic, egotistical, cruel, murdering."

Moylman cheered

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prof. Donald Patrick Moylman has only a few more papers to grade before he moves to Washington to become Senator Moylman.

Moylman said Thursday he has completed his teaching assignment at Harvard University and will move to Washington Jan. 1, as the junior Senator from New York.

A spokeswoman for Moylman said he gave his last lecture at Harvard on Wednesday and the class "stood and applauded when he was finished."

Columnist, wife fined

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — Hollywood columnist Army Archerd and his wife Selma were fined $75 each Thursday after pleading no contest to battery charges stemming from a brawl during a fashion show at the elegant Gucci's boutique.

The fight broke out when Mrs. Archerd, annoyed by smoke, doused a man's cigarette with her drink, the prosecutor said. The man splashed his drink at her, he said, whereupon she threw a glass at him and Archerd came to her defense, cutting the man behind the ear with a champagne glass.

In the melee, the prosecutor said, another woman suffered serious head cuts and Archerd was stripped of his toupee.

Malik honored

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union has honored Yakov Malik, its former ambassador to the United Nations, with the Order of Lenin.

The official Tass news agency said today that the decoration was presented to the veteran Soviet diplomat on the occasion of his 70th birthday.

Malik, who ranks as a deputy foreign minister, is being replaced as U.N. ambassador by Oleg Troyanovsky.

Hunt strikes out

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt apparently must spend Christmas in jail despite now efforts to release him.

The Parole Commission Thursday postponed, probably until Jan. 25, a decision on his parole request until a meeting of the full panel in Burlington, Calif.

Hunt, 58, is serving 30 months to eight years at the federal prison camp at Folsom Air Force Base, Fla.

The former CIA agent pleaded guilty to acting as lookout in a nearby motel when burglars were caught in the Democratic National Headquarters in Washington's Watergate complex in June, 1972, triggering the scandal that led to Richard Nixon's resignation.

MINNETONKA, Minn. (UPI) — Drinking and driving don't mix, and a company based here is going to do something about it.

Volunteers move snow

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — About 430 volunteers, most of them jobless because there isn't enough snow to open several Rocky Mountain ski areas, plan a weekend of moving snow to the slopes of Steamboat Springs in northwestern Colorado.

John Abeam, director of marketing for LTV Recreational Development Inc., said the volunteers showed up Thursday with shovels, track bags and sheet plastic to help move snow out of the woods and onto the slopes.

Abeam said the volunteers would spend the next three days handpicking the snow of debris and packing it by foot in an attempt to open at least some of the slopes by Monday. See photo p. 8.

Treenaper arrested

BERKELEY (UPI) — Edward B. Feinberg, 23, has been arrested on treenaping charges.

Feinberg told East Bay Regional Park District police he did not have enough money to buy a Christmas tree for his family so he decided to get one on his own.

Police said he used a coping saw to take down a 4 1/2 foot Monterey pine and 6 foot Jeffrey pine in Tilden Regional Park.

One tree, he said, was for his family and the other for his brother-in-law.

Baby returned to parents

HAWTHORNE, Calif. (UPI) — Jason Timothy Bustillos, the 6-month-old baby reported stolen from his crib last Monday, was found lying in an empty beer can in an alley and returned to his parents Thursday night.

The child, gurgling and kicking in the box outside the rear door of the Horseshoe Bar in Montclair, was found by San Bernardino County sheriff's deputies on routine patrol in the community 45 miles northeast of his home.

"He was in good condition," a spokesman said. "Warm and apparently well cared for. Just a little hungry — and a nice, warm bottle fixed that."

The officers took the child to a nearby hospital and notified Los Angeles County authorities, who determined that the baby was the missing boy.

They then notified the parents and flew the baby to them by helicopter.

"This is the best Christmas present we could have had," Doris Bustillos, 22, the boy's mother, said after seeing her child.

Mrs. Bustillos and her husband, Jerry, 24, said they had no idea why the child was kidnapped and no clue who did it. They never received any ransom notes.

She told police she last saw the child when she put him to bed Sunday night. The baby was missing the next morning, apparently taken by someone who removed a screen and crawled into the room through a window.

Deputies said patrons inside the bar apparently knew nothing about the child.

"No one there admitted having seen anyone leaving anything out there," a spokesman said.

Young willing to negotiate in stalled Rhodesia talks

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — Rep. Andrew Young, who will be the first black to represent this country in the United Nations, says unless America aggressively pursues black rule in Africa it can't exercise moral leadership elsewhere.

Young said he would be willing to negotiate personally in the stalled talks on black rule in Rhodesia, adding "if the secretary of state felt my being there was something the United States was willing to do, then I would love to do it."

"I think we have a great deal of responsibility to pursue majority rule in southern Africa," he said in an interview.

"We can't really assume the moral leadership that we need in the world in order to deal with problems like energy, the Middle East, everything else, unless we are aggressively pursuing majority rule in southern Africa."

President-elect Jimmy Carter praised Young as "the finest known" in announcing his appointment Thursday. Later, standing on the grass runway at the Plains Airport, Young discussed the assignment.

Young, 44, said his background in the church and the civil rights movement was responsible for shaping his life. He is a minister in the United Church of Christ and was a key aide to Martin Luther King Jr.

Young was at King's side when the civil rights leader was assassinated in Memphis in 1968.

The son of a New Orleans dentist, Young's first trip abroad was in 1953, just out of Hartford Theological Seminary, when he went to an international youth camp in Austria. He served on international projects of the National and World Councils of Churches to combat racism. And he went to Europe and Latin America with King.

He also has served on the House International Trade and Finance subcommittees.

Young said he reluctantly decided he was willing to leave his Atlanta seat in the House during an autumn trip to Africa where he saw the tremendous expectations the Africans placed in the Carter administration.

Young acknowledged that the future of the Third World and the rising expectations of nonwhites were one of the world's long range problems.

Study shows giving cash doesn't dull incentive

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Modest cash handouts to help families escape poverty do not discourage the work incentive, according to a 1972 study released today by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Both school performance and nutrition of children improved in the rural North Carolina families involved in the income experiment.

Purchase of cars, durable goods and houses, and the acquisition of loan debt — particularly for blacks — also increased for families in both North Carolina and Iowa where the three-year "Rural Income Maintenance Experiment" was started eight years ago.

The broad social experiment was conceived when the Democrats were last in the White House under Lyndon Johnson and released during transition to the New Democratic administration of Jimmy Carter.

The main conclusion of this second in a series of studies — that heads of families will continue to work if they have a guaranteed income — echoed results of a 1968-72 New Jersey study among low-income city dwellers, HEW said.

HEW said they found that men heading poor families in rural areas will continue to work while receiving cash subsidies even if they aren't required to.

Carter pushes for ERA

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — A phone call from President-elect Jimmy Carter was enough to get the Equal Rights Amendment to the floor of the Illinois Senate but fell short of putting Illinois on the list of states ratifying the amendment.

"The Senate rejected the ratification resolution Thursday, 29-22 with three members voting 'present'. Thirty-six votes were needed for passage."

Senate President Cecil Pardee, sponsor of the proposal, called for a vote after a telephone call from the President-elect and a visit by Carter's daughter-in-law.

"Let me be perfectly candid," Pardee said, "and say to you that I was certainly motivated by the interest expressed from the village in Georgia called Plains and from a man named Jimmy Carter."

"I am not absolutely certain there are enough votes to pass it now," Pardee, a personal friend of Carter's, said before the vote.

Some ERA legislative supporters say the last-minute vote was prompted by pressure from the most militant and optimistic ERA supporters.

A House ERA leader hinted she feels even Carter's calls may have been the result of work by some of the most militant feminist legislators.

She said some militant supporters thought they had enough votes to ratify but apparently were "mistaking a polite response for a promise of support. It doesn't work that way."

Some proponents argued that forcing legislators whose constituents oppose ERA to repeatedly go on record supporting it when there is no chance of passage may drive them to the opposition.

"Two past supporters" voted "present" in Thursday's vote.

But Pardee said he didn't think the vote would have any "negative impact" on the amendment.

Big paycheck

DETROIT (UPI) — Some 18,000 Ford Motor Co. assembly line workers will earn almost $800 for four days work between Christmas and New Year's in an unusual scheduling move to help the firm meet heavy demand for its large cars and vans.

Ford Thursday also confirmed it plans some temporary closings at small car plants in January. General Motors and Chrysler previously announced plans to idle nearly 22,000 workers for up to three weeks next month at plants that build slow selling small models.

Ford announced the triple time week as the industry is winding up the last full week of 1978 with the highest production schedules in more than three years.

The 18,000 Ford workers at five auto and two truck assembly plants will receive their regular holiday pay as the 40 hours they will work between Christmas and New Year's.

Carter plans reception

AMERICUS, Ga. (UPI) — On the morning after he is sworn in as president, Jimmy Carter's first act will be to have a modest "thank you" reception at the White House for old friends and campaign aides — 800 of them.

Carter said Thursday he and his wife have invited some 800 persons to a reception on the morning of Jan. 21, to thank them for opening their homes to him and his family during the long presidential campaign.

The Carters dined Thursday night at a barbecue restaurant regularly frequented by the press contingent assigned to nearby Plains. Mrs. Rosalynn Carter explained they decided to eat out because we were all dressed up and I had not cooked dinner.

In a mellow mood, Carter sat at a long table and chatted about his past, present and future.

He, Mrs. Carter and daughter Amy all ate medium rare steaks, baked potatoes, salad and pecan pie.

One by one reporters gathered at his table, and learned:

— He probably will not return to Washington before Jan. 21, the eve of the inauguration.

— He is considering some 45 persons for 15 positions that he hopes to fill before Christmas or soon after.

— On Dec. 27 he and his family probably will go to Sea Island off the south coast of Georgia for a few days and he will gather his cabinet there. Some members can get acquainted with each other.

Chemical approval delay hit

SPOKANE (UPI) — A fertilizer industry spokesman told the Idaho Empire Agriculture Chemical Association there is too much bureaucratic red tape. Walter Grimes, Mobay Chemical Corp., said the red tape is resulting in delays in approving chemicals for use on farms. He complained that many of the complainants have no background in agricultural chemicals. He urged chemical industry groups to become involved in public education programs dealing with the need for agricultural chemicals.

Dividend reduced

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — U & I Inc. has cut its regular quarterly dividend in half, due to low sugar prices. The Utah-based firm, which grows, processes and markets sugar from sugar beets in Utah, Idaho and Washington, said Wednesday its dividend for the latest quarter has been cut from 37 cents per share of common stock to 15 cents per share.

Soviet grain buying ends

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union appears to have harvested a record grain crop this year and probably will not make any more purchases from the United States in the immediate future, a U.S. Department of Agriculture official said today. Richard E. Bell, assistant secretary for International Affairs and Commodity Programs, said he drew these conclusions from three days of semi-annual consultations with Soviet trade officials. Bell said Soviet purchases in the first year of a two-year grain trade deal now stand at 6.6 million metric tons, including 3 million tons of wheat and 3.6 million tons of corn. The agreement sets a minimum yearly purchase level of 6 million tons, evenly divided between wheat and corn. Severe drought cut the 1975 Soviet Union's grain harvest to only 138 million tons, forcing it to purchase about 14.5 million tons of grain from the United States with a resultant serious drain on foreign currency reserves. Soviet officials told Bell final figures were not yet available on the size of the 1976 grain crop. They quoted a statement by Politburo member Pyotr D. Kobakov Nov. 5 that 220 million tons had been harvested by the start of November, to come within 2.5 million tons of the record 222.5 million ton harvest in 1973. "Several times during the discussions they referred to their record crop," Bell said. "We have concluded that when those figures are finally published it will probably be a record crop." "I also do not see them being a purchaser of any more American grain any time soon," Bell said.

Price sag dominates NFO meet

By KEN HODGE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The major topic of discussion at the National Farmers Organization (NFO) 1976 Convention in Milwaukee, Wis., was the poor effect of depressed farm prices on farmers.

In fact, according to two Twin Falls farmers who attended the convention Dec. 5 to Dec. 11, sinking commodity prices were all the conversationers talked about.

"It was strictly a commodity meeting," Shirel Silverstein said about the convention attended by more than 8,000 farmers. "We tried to arrive at a cost of production plus a reasonable profit."

"The gist of our meetings was geared toward the idea of arriving at figures every body could live with," said Ronald Kevan, also a Twin Falls farmer.

The figures agreed upon by NFO members at the convention closely watched current U.S. Department of Agriculture "Parity Index figures."

The USDA monthly publishes a report of current agricultural prices and compares them to what 100 per cent of parity would be if farmers were selling prices they needed to make farming pay.

For instance, in October, USDA figures set current wheat prices at $2.59 per bushel, only 53 per cent of the parity figure is set at $4.87 per bushel.

Official figures compiled at the NFO convention in Milwaukee set parity at $4.95 per bushel for hard red winter wheat.

"The figures we came up with just about compare right on the money with the parity figures of the USDA," Silverstein said.

The other figures NFO agreed would "net farmers their cost of producing a crop plus a reasonable profit were:

- milk, $12.75 per hundredweight (cwt.) for bottling grade and $11.80 per cwt. for manufacturing grade.
- corn, $3.20 per bushel.
- soybeans, $7.55 per bushel.
- feeder cattle, $39.25 per cwt., based on 500-pound choice steer calves.
- hogs, $53.50 per cwt.
- lambs, $59.05 per cwt.
- cotton, 79 cents per pound.
- edible beans, $24.50 per cwt.

Parity, as listed by the USDA, is $3.27 per bushel for corn, $7.25 per bushel for soybeans, $7.908 per pound for cotton, $12.10 per cwt. for bottling grade milk, $32.40 for hogs, $58.20 for lambs and $57 per cwt. for cattle.

According to Oct. 15 USDA figures, current farm prices net farmers only 68 per cent of parity.

NFO employs collective bargaining to help farmers get better prices for their commodities.

The goal set by the NFO this year is to gain control of 30 per cent of the nation's commodities in its collective bargaining operation to attempt to influence commodity prices upward.

"The prices are what we are after, but basically now we have some goals we have set and it is up to the farmers to help us achieve them," Silverstein said. "The only way it will be achieved is through the membership and their production."

Both Silverstein and Kevan said enthusiasm was high at the convention and farmers were optimistic prices will improve.

Gem grain crops larger

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho grain crops this year were eight to 14 per cent higher than last year, the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said Wednesday.

Barley production was 14 per cent higher and only one per cent below the record set in 1973.

The wheat crop increased by 10 per cent although frost in late June nipped wheat in some parts of southeastern and eastern Idaho causing more than a normal amount of sterile spikelets, the service reported.

Some 18,000 bushels were added to last year's mixed grain production.

Oats were up by eight per cent as producers achieved a record typing yield.

Seeding plan cuts storm lightning

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — Researchers from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration say they have tested a cloud-seeding technique which successfully reduces lightning during thunderstorms.

The scientists, in a paper presented to an annual meeting of the American Geophysical Union in San Francisco, said the seeding operations did not eliminate lightning but reduced its intensity and frequency.

Dr. David Rust of the NOAA said the research team flew through thunderstorms and seeded the clouds with aluminumized strands of fiberglass, "chaff." Scientists in a nearby plane then used a radiometer to measure the intensity of lightning.

The director of the project, Dr. Heinz Kasenir, said the equipment indicated the seeding caused electrical charges within the clouds to "bleed away," resulting in reduced occurrences of lightning.

"Although the chaff does not completely dissipate the storm's electricity, it apparently enough to bring about a considerable reduction in lightning activity," the scientists' report said.

Dry fall drought harbinger?

By United Press International

Forecasters say it's too early to tell whether the West's dry weather to date is a harbinger of a drought next year. But that's little solace for farmers.

From Idaho to Southern California, ski resorts are complaining the lack of snow.

Range, where California skiers normally find snow from the Sierra Nevada is bare, all resorts are still closed. And none of the 26 resorts in Oregon and Washington report enough snow for safe skiing.

The National Weather Service says late fall snowstorms are moving through Canada instead of into the United States because the jet stream has not yet moved south as it normally does in the winter.

"It's awfully early to say we don't have enough snow," said Steve Allred, administrator of the division of planning, Idaho Department of Water Resources.

"I don't think a lack of snow in the lower areas will tell us we're going to have a drought next year. Most of the reservoirs have a good carryover. It still could get a lot of rain."

Robert Murdoch of the Utah Water Resources Division agrees.

"Usually we have a pretty good snowpack from November and December on, but that can be made up in March and April," he said. "However, if we have only average precipitation for the rest of the winter, we could be heading for trouble."

"In the Northwest, despite the dry spell officials say there is still plenty of water in the Columbia River system of reservoirs, but the effect on irrigation next summer will depend on whether there is enough precipitation in the months ahead. The Seattle Light reservoirs on the Skagit River which provide hydroelectric power are below normal, however, and Superintendent Gordon Vickery has urged customers to help save energy by foregoing outdoor Christmas lights this year.

In Portland, the launching of a barge on the Willamette River had to be postponed because there is not enough water in the river to float it.

Arizona received good rain during the fall and usually does not get its major snowfall until January or February, so is not considered in the drought area.

Looking toward next spring and summer, the long-term drought situation is most serious in California, where reservoirs are already low following a dry winter this past year which resulted in $437 million in agricultural losses.

At Lake Shasta, only 1.6 inches of rain have fallen since Oct. 1, compared with 9 inches for the same period last year.

Folsom Reservoir is at its lowest level in 10 years.

In Marin County north of San Francisco, one water district has voted to enforce a total ban on outside watering and establish a house-by-house water allotry plan starting in January, unless there is significant rainfall.

"We are really concerned we may have a year that is as dry as last year — or even worse."

said, Charles Shoemaker, assistant director of the California Department of Water Resources.

The immediate crisis is for the ski industry. California's ski resorts are still closed. Utah resorts report they are losing a combined $2-3 million a week, and the Oregon-Washington resorts will lose half their gross annual revenues — $20 to $30 million — if they can't open for the Christmas holidays.

"Our industry forecasts show no sign of a major snow storm in the next two weeks," said Mel Borgstrom, executive director of the Pacific Northwest Ski Areas Association.

Only twice in the last 40 years have Utah's resorts opened as late as Dec. 24, and normally Northwest resorts are in high gear by the holidays.

"I haven't seen the opening this late for 20 years," said Webb Moffett, operator of the Snoqualmie Summit resort 60 miles east of Seattle.

The only resort reporting enough snow for skiing in Idaho is Sun Valley, and the 15-18 inches on its slopes were generated by a snow machine.

Some resort operators are looking beyond the weatherman for an end to the dry spell. At the Big Lost Basin Recreation Area near Boise, Idaho, the recorded snow condition message ends with: "Thank you for calling and pray for snow."

Archaeological find

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet salt miners in the Transcaucasus have stumbled across archaeological evidence of the mine having been worked 4,000 years earlier.

The official Tass news agency said that while working a salt seam at a depth of 150 meters the miners discovered a huge cave.

Archaeologists found stone implements, ceramic ware and other utensils that dated the cave to 4,000 years ago.

Mustangs increasing 'too fast'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wild horse herds in the West are increasing too rapidly and up to 10,000 horses should be removed from federal lands to slow "serious deterioration" of grazing areas, a government report said Wednesday.

The report sent to Congress by the Bureau of Land Management and the Forest Service did not propose any means for reducing the herds. But a BLM spokesman said the government does not expect its horse "adoption" program to absorb all the equines.

"It's nearly an impossible situation," he said.

The animals are protected under provisions of the Wild,

Free-Roaming Horses and Burros Act of 1971. But the government contends they have been over-populating because few natural predators exist to thin their ranks, and predators "serious deterioration" of range forage will result if nothing is done.

Cattlemen who graze their livestock on federal ranges view the wild horses as competitors for forage.

The report said there are now more than 50,000 wild horses and 7,000 wild burros roaming federal lands in the West.

It said the 1971 act recognized the need to control their populations if necessary through "humane destruction," but does not propose a way to thin herds.

The BLM has been capturing the horses and putting them up for adoption. It expects to increase the numbers it traps next year, because new legislation allows it to use helicopters to round them up.

"We're going to have to find some means of getting more off the range," said Charles Most, a BLM spokesman. But "the report points out we may run out of people for this program, because potential future placement of horses and burros will become less possible as qualified placements are exhausted."

Velma "Wild Horse Annie" Johnston, famed for her fight to save wild mustangs, recently proposed that vasectomies be done on wild stallions to keep their populations down.

The government report says Nevada has the largest concentration of wild horses, with 22,258 head, followed by Wyoming with 8,833, Oregon with 7,493 and California with 4,230. California has most of the wild burros with 3,072, followed by Arizona with 2,668.

Symms still edgy over reserve plan

SPOKANE (UPI) — Idaho Congressman Steven Symms worried a grain reserve policy developed by a Carter advisor will hurt farmers.

Symms Wednesday told the Grand Empire Agriculture Chemicals Association that the plan aims to lower farm prices. He said it authorizes the government to dump grain from its reserves into the market when prices rise.

Symms told the association's convention in Spokane that he has an extension for one or two years of the present Farm Bill. Instead of returning to outside programs. But he said the bulk of the population lives in cities and therefore depressed farm prices have a broad appeal.

Symms cautioned farm area people against making early demands on the Carter Administration.

"If we do it by mob rule, we're going to lose out," he said.

Symms said he would ask for a full public hearing of the plan when the 95th Congress starts exploring farm legislation.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune & N. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I recently read in your column a defense of doctors, many of whom were not nearly as rich as most people thought they were.

My husband, a physician, died at 61. He literally worked himself to death making housecalls night and day. He never turned anyone away who needed medical care. He gave his services free when he knew a patient couldn't afford to pay him. And he never overcharged anyone who he knew could pay a larger fee.

When this dedicated man died, his patients moaned and groaned: "Whatever will we do without our dear doctor?" But two years later, their combined unpaid bills totaled $11,000.

Abby, who do some people feel that their doctor bills are automatically cancelled just because their doctor dies? Those bills are owed and should be paid out of respect and appreciation.

Doctor bills canceled?

If you think this is worth the space in your column, please use it. And if it causes some people to feel uncomfortable, at least they will have gotten the message.

DOCTOR'S WIDOW: SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR WIDOW R: It's well worth the space. It also brings to mind an ancient Chinese proverb: "The wise dentist collects his fee while his patient's tooth is still aching."

DEAR ABBY: You can do a lot toward equal rights for women by publishing these statements, which we have all heard repeatedly but until recently didn't have the courage to protest:

"Play dumb. Men don't like girls who are too smart."

"May I speak to your husband? It's important."

"Sorry, but we don't hire single girls; they'll just leave us to get married."

"Sorry, we don't hire married women; they'll just leave us to have babies."

"Sorry, we don't want to employ mothers; they ought to be home with their children."

"Sorry, we don't give jobs to women whose husbands are working; they don't need the money."

Very truly yours,
MS. Mc K.

DEAR MS. Mc K: Right on! Such remarks should not go unchallenged. The squeaking wheel gets the grease.

DEAR ABBY: My husband passed away some time ago, and now I am wondering if I'm still related in any way to my husband's family. I have not remarried. My son's wife tells me I am no longer related to the family of my late husband. I hope you can ease my mind about this.

M.S.

DEAR M.S.: You are not related in a legal sense; but in a sentimental one, I think you should be considered still as "one of the family."

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Japanese man to see 'dream'

TOKYO (UPI) — Hawaiian children can feast their eyes on a giant snowman made of genuine Mount Fuji snow if they visit Waikiki beach on New Year's Day — but they had better be quick about it.

The 18 foot tall snowy wonder will melt in three hours, according to its creator.

The project is the inspiration of a soft hearted Japanese businessman from Saitama province who wanted to fulfill the dream of an aged Japanese resident of Honolulu, according to the English language Mainichi Daily News.

Osamu Sato, 31, owner of a Chinese restaurant in Saitama's Soka city, decided to build the snowman after the old man told him he longed to see snow from the summit of the 12,335 foot sacred mountain. Sato met the man during a trip to Hawaii last spring.

Five tons of Mount Fuji snow will be transported to Hawaii in a refrigerated plane for the project. Work on the snowman will begin New Year's Eve.

declarer would take the spade finesse and make all 13 tricks.
 However, most declarers wound up in four spades.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Today's hand is one of the classic swindles of all time. At the tables where North played three notrump the declarer would take the spade finesse and make all 13 tricks. However, most declarers wound up in four spades.

A club lead would lead them to 11 tricks, but nearly everyone opened that singleton six of diamonds whereupon South would go up with dummy's king, take that same spade finesse and make all the tricks.

Now see if you can figure out how one declarer managed to go down at four spades. It wasn't really too difficult for him to work out the losing play. He did get a diamond lead; he did hop up with dummy's king, but only after considerable study.

This gave East time to see the potential swindle. He dropped the queen of diamonds under the king!

Now South read East, not West for the singleton diamond. He led dummy's queen of spades and East played low. So South went up with his ace in order to try to keep East from ruffing that diamond. Now he led a second spade. East took his king; gave his partner a diamond ruff and two club tricks completed the rout.

Ask the Jacobys

A New York reader wants to ask Oswald Jacoby who was the toughest opponent he ever faced.

Oswald's answer is the late Jimmy Mayer. He was only 22 when he died, but he was already one of the five or six best in the world.

Violent shows ranked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Citizens Committee for Broadcasting said Thursday NBC-TV had the most prime time violence on its network during the fall season and General Motors Chevrolet division sponsored the most violent programs.

NCCB chairman Nicholas Johnson told a news conference ratings for an 11-week period between Sept. 20 and Dec. 5 showed "Quest," a western about two brothers looking for their lost sister, was the most violent program.

In its second survey of prime time violence, NCCB, a Washington-based private media reform group, said CBS-TV continued to be the least violent network, and Peter Paul Candy the advertiser of the least violence. Eleven shows, including "Mary Tyler Moore Show," "Chico and the Man," and "Sirota's Court," had no violence of significance.

The survey, conducted for NCCB by a private television monitoring firm, was financed by a $25,000 grant by the American Medical Association.

Wendell couple helps capture escapee

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

WENDELL — An alert Wendell couple assisted Gooding County officers in apprehending an escaped state prison inmate early this morning.

Walter David Decker, 25, Rupert, escaped from two state prison guards in Bijie Thursday evening.

Early this morning he went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Art Peterson, just northwest of Wendell, and asked for a ride into town. He told the couple he had to get to Wendell for football practice.

Pat Jeffries, deputy in the Gooding sheriff's office, said the couple knew the football season was over and became suspicious. However, Peterson obliged and drove the young man to Wendell. As soon as they left, Mrs. Peterson called the Gooding County sheriff's office and reported the incident.

She said her husband would take the man to the Coffee Corner restaurant in Wendell.

Deputy Jeffries notified Wendell Police Chief Dale Bunin who went to the cafe and had the man in custody when Deputy Everett Cox, who was dispatched from Tuttle, and Sheriff Earl Brown, Gooding, arrived.

Deputy Jeffries said Peterson was with the man at the restaurant when county officers arrived. The escapee was unarmed and offered no resistance, officers said.

Decker, serving a 10-year sentence for the armed robbery two years ago of the Skaggs Drug Center in Burley, was captured in a restaurant at that time and escaped Thursday in a restaurant, officers said.

He had been taken to Burley to attend the funeral of an Uncle and was being returned to the state prison Thursday evening when he escaped at about 6 p.m. in the Roadrunner Restaurant, Bliss.

Deputy Jeffries said Decker, the two guards and another prisoner had eaten dinner at the restaurant.

Handcuffs had been removed from the prisoners and one of the guards left the table to go to the restroom. Decker said he would go, too, and followed the guard, but the guard did not realize Decker was behind him. The other guard thought the first had heard Decker say he would go along.

Jeffries said, Decker apparently took advantage of the situation and slipped out the back door and disappeared.

Sheriff Earl Brown said road blocks were set up throughout Magic Valley Thursday night with county and state officers assisting. He said his county received excellent cooperation from other officers and especially from Wendell Police Chief Bunin.

Decker was in custody in the Gooding County Jail this morning, waiting resumption of his trip to Boise.

Peterson said the man told him while en route to Wendell that he had spent most of the night in a cornfield and had heard coyotes howling.

"He asked me if 'coyotes ate people' and said he had been running during the night but hid in the cornfield because of the coyotes," Peterson said.

The Wendell man said Decker didn't volunteer any information as to why he had been running or hiding in the cornfield but was nervous, cold and hungry.

"I think maybe he was glad to get back into custody. I don't think he enjoyed the night in the cold," Peterson said.

He said he was not aware of an escaped prisoner, but his wife had heard it on television and as Peterson went through the house to get to the truck, he left Decker waiting outside the front door.

"My wife told me as I went through the house that officers were looking for an escaped prisoner and we decided this was probably him. I wasn't afraid of him. He didn't appear armed and didn't look like the type who would try to jump me," Peterson said.

MID to join dam lawsuit

RUPERT — The Minidoka Irrigation District would rather sue than be sued.

The MID board of directors Thursday voted to take "affirmative action" to enter a federal lawsuit filed by Burley Atty. James Annett in connection with the construction of a new American Falls Dam.

The suit was filed on behalf of William Kerner and other members of American Falls Reservoir District No. 2.

Defendants listed in the suit include the United States, Secretary of Interior, Bureau of Reclamation Commissioner Gilbert Stamm, Idaho Power Co. and the irrigation districts that have storage space in American Falls Reservoir.

That listing includes MID as a defendant because it is not a plaintiff and the district has storage at the dam.

Larry Duffin, attorney for MID, was given the option of taking whatever affirmative action he thought necessary.

Duffin told the board it should take part in any lawsuit that includes the MID stand without jeopardizing the district's position to its water rights. He estimated cost of participation in the suit at about $10,000 to $50,000 but added he has not decided whether a cross complaint or other legal action would be more appropriate.

The MID's legal position is different from that of Annett's clients.

The others in American Falls District No. 2 are suing because their district boards of directors signed a bond repayment plan on the dam replacement program after its approval by more than two-thirds of the irrigators in the district.

The Minidoka Irrigation District twice rejected the dam replacement program, which received a majority.

The Burley Irrigation District and the Falls Irrigation District, are two other major districts which voted to oppose construction of the new dam. The BID board is scheduled to meet Monday.

Gooding planners to close 'loophole'

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

GOODING — The Gooding County Planning and Zoning Commission has proposed an amendment to the present county subdivision ordinance which is expected to close the alleged loophole in the law.

The subdivision ordinance has come under fire in Hagerman recently because of the Beverly Hills Estate, where four developers each divided a parcel of land four times, thereby bypassing subdivision control.

Commission members also are unhappy because county commissioners changed the wording of their original ordinance.

The Planning and Zoning Commission had said that if land were divided into two parts it would be defined as a subdivision. The Gooding County commissioners changed the wording to say land must be subdivided five times before it comes under subdivision control.

"They changed the wording without telling us," said Pauline Jackson, planning commission secretary.

About eight Hagerman residents attended the planning group meeting Wednesday night to urge action to close the loophole. Janice Artburn, one of the delegation, said, "We were pleased at the commission's action."

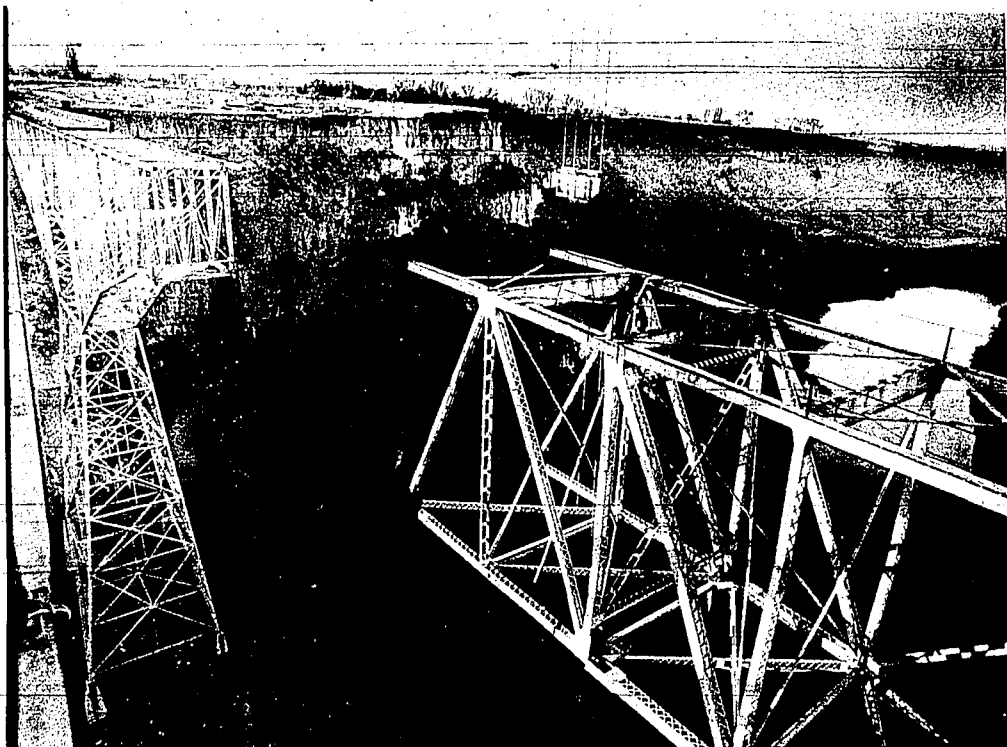

Wayne Matthews, planning commission chairman, and Bill Brailford, member, reported that Ursula Kettelwell, Boise, with the state attorney general's office, had met with the county commissioners Monday to discuss the loophole.

She suggested the ambiguous wording could be cleared up with the addition of the word "original," making the definition of a subdivision an "original tract of land divided into five or more lots for purpose of sale."

Some planning commission members wanted the word "two" put back instead of five, Mrs. Jackson said, but the majority agreed to remain with the five.

The planning commission must hold a hearing before formally turning the suggested amendment to the county commission. Then the county commissioners must in turn hold a hearing.

Ben Glauner, county commission chairman, said it would probably be two months before the amendment could become law. He said he had discussed the possibility of challenging the Hagerman developers' action, but Jack Varin, county attorney, had advised against it.

IEA seeks equalization of school funding

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Equalization of funding for Idaho school districts was urged by the Idaho Education Association (IEA) Thursday night at a dinner meeting with Magic Valley legislators in Twin Falls.

IEA Executive Secretary Don Rolife told legislators the association would support bills in the coming legislative session to end the disparity in monies received by poor school districts with small tax bases and the richer districts in which higher assessed valuations per capita returned more local tax money per child for each mill levied.

"True equalization probably will not be achieved until the state supports 100 per cent of the educational financing," Rolife said. He added, however, that total state support was presently unrealistic, and "probably won't happen in any of our lifetimes."

Rolife said the IEA would support bills to increase the number of mills (22) currently equalized through formulas administered by the Department of Education (DPE) in handing out state school funds.

The association, Rolife added, favored the removal of the present 27-mill tax levy limitation to let school districts levy whatever taxes were necessary to meet school budgets.

Rolife said the IEA would support DPE proposed legislation to increase the legal limit on the school levy to 35 mills and to boost the number of equalized mills to 30, if the IEA proposal for complete removal of the mill-levy limitation "doesn't fly."

He also said the association is studying the support of a possible PTA suit which would ask the state Supreme Court to direct the Legislature to make equalization more effective.

"We are realistic enough to understand that a system of total equalization probably won't happen in this session of the Legislature," Rolife said.

As long as local tax monies are used to support school districts, he added, any effective method of equalization would require uniform assessment ratios throughout the state. Present law requiring annual steps toward a uniform 20 per cent assessment ratio statewide by 1982 has not been effective, he said.

The equalization proposals were only a part of the legislation the IEA hopes to see passed this session. Other proposals detailed by Rolife included:

- An increase in statewide public school support from all sources of about $21 million next year. The money would go for increases in instructional salaries of about 15 per cent, Rolife said, and the increase by 15 per cent of monies for materials, instructional supplies and personnel, particularly in kindergarten and special education programs.

- Distribution of sales tax replacement funds through the DPE rather than directly to the school districts.

- The establishment of a DPE-administered school building construction fund to bail out school districts which have exhausted bonding capacities without achieving adequate physical plants.

- Reduction of the two-thirds majority now required in school construction bond levies to a simple majority.

- Adjustment of local school board election law to provide that candidates be nominated by zones but elected at-large in each district.

- A requirement that special school board meetings be given public notice similar to that given regular meetings.

- Changes in public employee bargaining laws to include procedures for union certification, scope of representation, and the methods to be employed in resolving disputes and negotiations impasse.

- Payroll deduction by school districts of teachers' union dues upon union request.

- A higher salary for the State Superintendent of Public Instruction and the making of the office appellate rather than the elected position it now is.

Fire destroys Kimberly shed

KIMBERLY — A storage shed filled with straw and lumber by fire destroyed Thursday night, fire officials reported.

Eight fire fighters and one firetruck battled the one-hour blaze which began about 9:30 p.m. when a building electrical wire shorted out, fire officials said.

Twin Falls County sheriff's deputies estimated damage at $500 to the roughly 14-by-24-foot shed.

Mrs. Anna McKay, the owner's mother, suffered what could possibly have been a stroke at the time of the fire, a sheriff's deputy reported.

She was transported to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital where she was listed today in fair condition. Hospital officials said it remains unclear whether she suffered a stroke.

Greater Idaho, Ponderosa lose licenses

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Greater Idaho Corp. and Ponderosa Inns, Inc. forfeited their corporate licenses Nov. 30 because of failure to file annual statements due Sept. 1, according to Idaho Deputy Secretary of State Everett Wohlers.

An attorney with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission said Thursday that Greater Idaho Corp. also has failed to file required SEC reports for both 1975 and 1976.

Wohlers told the Times-News that without their state licenses, Greater Idaho and Ponderosa Inns, Inc. cannot legally operate. He said, however, that the corporations could reinstate their licenses simply by filing their annual statement and paying a late fee and a reinstatement fee.

Greater Idaho is a Twin Falls-based holding company which has owned Ponderosa Inns, Inc., Regal Homes and Air Idaho, all of which have encountered severe financial difficulties. Air Idaho no longer files, Regal Homes no longer makes homes and the Ponderosa Inn in Burley has been going through bankruptcy proceedings.

Wohlers said that re-instatement of the license "removes the disability" and "operates back" in time. "It's only if they don't reinstate that there's any kind of real problem," he said.

However, according to Jean Uranga, assistant attorney general in business regulation, officers of the corporation would still be personally liable for corporate acts during the time the corporation operated without a charter.

"Our CPAs (certified public accountants) were finishing the audit and we discussed it with the state and we asked for an extension and we'll be filing before the end of the year," Floyd C. Anglin said when asked why Greater Idaho and Ponderosa Inns, Inc., had not filed reports with the secretary of state.

Anglin said he is the president of Ponderosa Inns, Inc. and said this corporation owns majority interest in the Ponderosa Inn in Burley. He said, however, he does not know who the president of Greater Idaho Corp. is. "I don't think we've had a board meeting electing a president," he said.

Greater Idaho, he said, still owns 100 per cent of the stock of Ponderosa Inns, Inc.

Wohlers said he had heard of no request for extension of the licenses of either Greater Idaho or Ponderosa Inns, Inc. He said state records show the corporations forfeited their licenses Nov. 30 after not filing their annual statements which are due Sept. 1.

George Prince, an attorney with the U.S. Securities Exchange Commission, said that Greater Idaho Corp. has not filed its annual reports for 1975 or for 1976.

Failure to file, he said, is a violation of federal law but "in practice a lot of jawboning and negotiation goes on between the commission and the delinquents and every effort is made to get them to file" and "only in extreme cases" is court action taken. He would not say whether he is undertaking such "jawboning."

Prince, who works out of the SEC's regional office in Seattle, was contacted in Twin Falls. "We're investigating and that's all we can say," he said. He said he could not say what he is investigating.

Stocks at midday

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices opened higher Friday in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange in reaction to the oil cartel's surprising spot price increases.

The Dow Jones Industrial average was ahead 1.25-10.925.50 shortly after the opening. Advances led declines, 291 to 152, among the 697 issues crossing the tape.

Investors were pleasantly surprised the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries agreed to allow Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates to raise oil prices 1 per cent and the other 11 members to raise them 10.4 per cent for six months.

Further, analysts halted the doctrine of Saudi Arabia, the largest oil producer, to take a ceiling off production, which has been in force since the 1973 oil crisis.

Oil executives were surprised by the action, that indicated a split had occurred. Observers were uncertain about this however.

President-elect Carter, at a news conference Thursday, said he had "good hopes" the OPEC ministers would limit their price hike.

Quake, farm research increase proposed

Friday, December 17, 1976 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 19

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford will propose in next year's federal budget an accelerated earthquake research effort, three new space projects and new agricultural research support, the President's science advisor said today.

Ford outlined his science and technology spending plans for fiscal 1978 in an hour-long White House briefing with science leaders from across the nation and in government agencies.

Dr. H. Guyford Stever, director of the White House Office of Science and Technology Policy, said Ford's proposed spending plan for the next fiscal year will call for an increase of 3 per cent above inflationary costs in basic research.

"The president is determined to have in the budget a sufficient increase in basic research so there will be real growth above inflation," Stever said in a news briefing.

Stever said the accelerated earthquake research effort would be aimed at developing an earthquake prediction capability and dealing with the effects of major tremors. He said the new funding proposal would roughly double the $25 million currently being spent on such work.

"There is a strong acceleration of the program in the forthcoming budget," he said.

The proposed National Aeronautics and Space Administration budget will include funds to start work on a fourth Landsat Earth resources observation satellite, a large orbiting telescope and a mission to place a photographic satellite in orbit around Jupiter.

Stever said, however, that the NASA budget will not include money to begin work on a follow-on Viking Mars landing satellite for launch in 1981 as some scientists had hoped.

The proposed agriculture research effort would propose $25 to $30 million to fund competitive grants to researchers engaged in promising aspects of study.

Last red dye cancer threat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American public is being exposed to a "substantial" cancer risk by the only red coloring still widely used in the food supply, two researchers told the government Thursday.

The dye, Red No. 40, is being produced at the rate of 2 million pounds a year for use in everything from ice cream to soda pop. It is the second most widely used food coloring, and Red No. 4, whose only food use was in maraschino cherries.

Red 40 is the last red dye which can be mixed properly with liquid foods, and a ban would create problems for the food industry.

Personal income up in November

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Propelled by a large boost in manufacturing payrolls, personal income received by Americans increased $15 billion in November, the Commerce Department reported today.

The increase was the largest since a $15.5 billion jump in August, 1975.

The department's monthly figures showed that income received by all individuals in the economy from all sources rose to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1.417 trillion, an increase of $15 billion, or 1.1 per cent, over October's revised rate of $1.402 trillion.

The October increase was $11.2 billion, or 0.8 per cent.

Manufacturing payrolls, the department said, increased $4.5 billion last month, compared with a slight $300 million climb in October.

The strong November gain (in the manufacturing sector) resulted from increases in employment, average weekly hours, and average hourly earnings, the report said.

The largest increase in the manufacturing sector was in transportation equipment payrolls, reflecting the first full month of operation since the end of the automobile strike.

The report said private wages and salaries increased $8.7 billion in November, compared with an October increase of $4.9 billion. Payrolls in commodity-producing industries increased $5.2 billion, compared with October's climb of $1.8 billion.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened higher Friday in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange in reaction to the oil cartel's surprising price increase.

The Dow Jones industrial average was ahead 1.25 to 982.55 shortly after the opening. Advances—led by oil and the other 11 of the 30 issues crossing the 100-point mark.

Investors were pleasantly surprised the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries agreed to allow Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates to raise oil prices 1 percent and the other 11 members to raise their oil prices 10 percent.

Further, analysts hailed the decision of Saudi Arabia, the largest oil producer, to take a ceiling off production, which has been far below capacity. This will put pressure on the countries attempting to raise prices 10 percent.

Oil executives were surprised by the action, that indicated a split had occurred. Observers were uncertain about this, however.

President-elect Carter, at a news conference Thursday, said he had "good hopes" the OPEC members would limit their price hike.

Quake, farm research increase proposed

Friday, December 17, 1976 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 19

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford will propose in next year's federal budget an accelerated earthquake research effort, three new space projects and new agricultural research support, the President's science adviser said today.

Ford outlined his science and technology spending plans for fiscal 1978 in an hour-long White House briefing with science leaders from across the nation and in government agencies.

Dr. H. Guyford Stever, director of the White House Office of Science and Technology Policy, said Ford's proposed spending plan for the next fiscal year will call for an increase of 3 per cent above inflationary costs in basic research.

"The president is determined to have in the budget a sufficient increase in basic research so there will be real growth above inflation," Stever said in a news briefing.

Stever said the accelerated earthquake research effort would be aimed at developing an earthquake prediction capability and dealing with the effects of major tremors. He said the new funding proposal would roughly double the $25 million currently being spent on such work.

"There is a strong acceleration of the program in the forthcoming budget," he said.

The proposed National Aeronautics and Space Administration budget will include funds to start work on a fourth Landsat Earth resources observation satellite, a large orbiting telescope and a mission to place a photographic satellite in orbit around Jupiter.

Stever said, however, that the NASA budget will not include money to begin work on a follow-on Viking Mars landing satellite for launch in 1981 as some scientists had hoped.

The proposed agriculture research effort would propose $25 to $30 million to fund competitive grants to researchers engaged in promising aspects of study.

Last red dye cancer threat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American public is being exposed to a "substantial" cancer risk by the only red coloring still widely used in the food supply, two researchers told the government Thursday.

The dye, Red No. 40, is being produced at the rate of 2 million pounds a year for use in everything from ice cream to soda pop. It is the second most widely used food coloring, and Red No. 4, whose only food use was in maraschino cherries.

Red 40 is the last red dye which can be mixed properly with liquid foods, and a ban would create problems for the food industry.

Personal income up in November

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Propelled by a large boost in manufacturing payrolls, personal income received by Americans increased $15 billion in November, the Commerce Department reported today.

The increase was the largest since a $15.5 billion jump in August, 1975.

The department's monthly figures showed that income received by all individuals in the economy from all sources rose to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1,417 trillion, an increase of $15 billion, or 1.1 per cent, over October's revised rate of $1,402 trillion.

The October increase was $11.2 billion or 0.8 per cent.

Manufacturing payrolls, the department said, increased $4.5 billion last month, compared with a slight $300 million climb in October.

"The strong November gain in the manufacturing sector resulted from increases in employment, average weekly hours, and average hourly earnings," the report said.

The largest increase in the manufacturing sector was in transportation equipment payrolls, reflecting the first full month of operation since the end of the automobile strike.

The report said private wages and salaries increased $8.7 billion in November, compared with an October increase of $4.9 billion. Payrolls in commodity-producing industries increased $5.2 billion, compared with October's climb of $1.8 billion.

HEAVENLY HOLIDAY PIES

Make the Most of Mince Meat

Webster defines tradition as "the handing down of information, beliefs, and customs by word of mouth or by example from one generation to another without written instruction." Several universal traditions come quickly to mind... holiday customs and the traditional preparation of special holiday foods. Yesteryear's cooks have given us a rich legacy of traditional foods such as mince meat, an aromatic blend of apples, plums, raisins, citrus peel, spices, sweetening, and little, if any, meat.

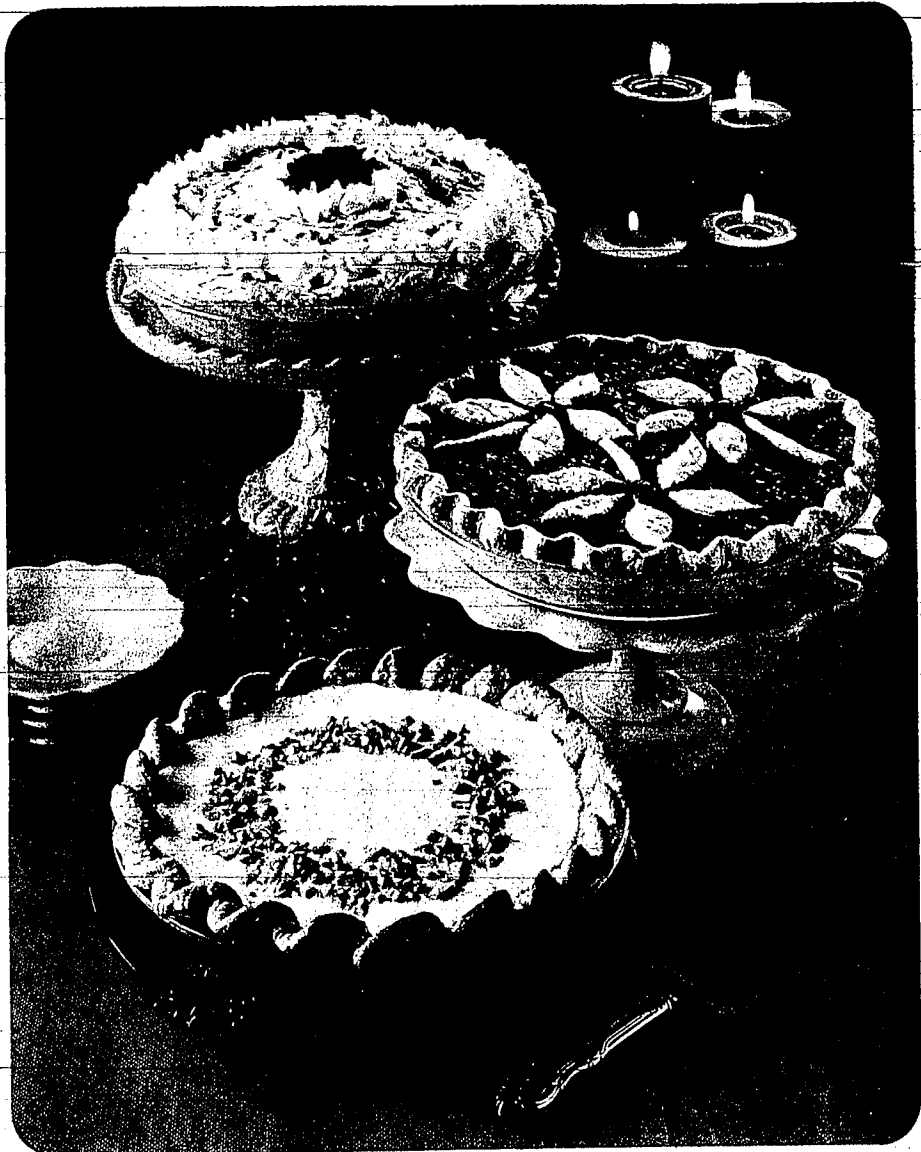

The legend of the legacy goes back centuries to mince meat's origin. Lost in the pages of history is the name of the European who discovered how to preserve meat by mixing it with sugar or sugar-containing ingredients, like freshly-ripened fruits.

History does tell us that mince meat flavored with fruits and spices was served in 1413 at the coronation of Henry V of England. Between 1509 and 1547, during the reign of Henry VIII, the Christmas Pie was baked in rectangular form to represent the Christ Child's manger. The pie was filled with a rich mixture of meats and a variety of fruits. Later, when England came under Puritan rule, such extravagantly rich pies were denounced. Those who continued to bake such pies chose to use a new form... round pans, and they changed the name to "mince pies."

The most notable transition occurred when the concept of mince meat pies was brought to America where, because of more fruit and less meat, the pies became dessert fare. Whether pies were formed in the rectangular or the round, for dessert or main-course fare, matters little now. What matters is that we have made mince meat pie the traditional American holiday dessert. Generally speaking, mince meat pies are still baked in the round but their fillings are varied to please individual palates.

No written rule exists to vary the traditional theme. If you'd like to expand the tradition, be adventurous and add one or more of these uncommonly delicious mince meat pie variations. Heavenly is the word for Mince Angel Pie, a cloud-light meringue shell with a mince-whipped cream filling and garnish. Open-faced Mince-Walnut Pie is a rich, delectable combination sure to please the man of the house. Twin-layered Ambrosia Pie makes the most of mince meat and an overlayer of dairy-fresh sour cream custard.

If plain, good, hot, mince meat pie has always been the tradition at your house, you may want to keep it just that way. Even when pressed for time, you can resort to this shortcut to a tasty, traditional, mince meat pie. Buy or bake a 9-inch pastry shell... fill it with one 28-ounce jar of ready-to-use mince meat, either the plain or brandy-rum flavored. (Or to accomplish the same result, reconstitute two 9-ounce packages of condensed mince meat with water or orange juice.) Add a top layer of pastry; make a few steam vents. Bake at 425° for 30 minutes. All of the king's cooks couldn't make a better mince pie!

MINCE ANGEL PIE

(Makes one 9-inch pie)

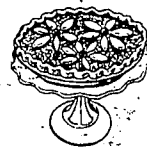

- 4 egg whites
- 2/3 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 cup confectioners' sugar
- 1 cup (1/2 pint) heavy cream
- 1-1/3 cups (one-half 28-oz. jar) ready-to-use brandy & rum mince meat

In small mixer bowl, beat egg whites until foamy. Add sugars gradually, beating well after each addition. Spread evenly in buttered and floured 9-inch pie plate. Bake at 275° for 1 hour. Allow to cool at least 30 minutes. In small mixer bowl, whip heavy cream until stiff. Fold mince meat into whipped cream. Spread in baked shell. Chill 2 to 3 hours. Garnish as desired. Refrigerate leftovers. TIP: Shell may be made ahead, covered, and stored in refrigerator.

MINCE-WALNUT PIE

(Makes one 9-inch pie)

- 1 (9-inch) unbaked pastry shell
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
- 3/4 cup chopped walnuts
- 1 (28-oz.) jar ready-to-use plain OR brandy & rum mince meat

In large bowl, slightly beat eggs. Combine sugar, flour, and salt; gradually stir into eggs. Add butter, walnuts, and mince meat; mix well. Pour into pastry shell. Bake at 400° for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 325°; bake 50 minutes longer or until filling is slightly puffed and firm. Refrigerate any leftovers.

AMBROSIA PIE

(Makes one 9-inch pie)

- 1 (9-inch) unbaked pastry shell
- 1 (9-oz.) package condensed mince meat
- 1 cup water
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 2 cups (1 pint) sour cream
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 2 tablespoons chopped nuts

In a small saucepan, break mince meat into small pieces; add water. Boil briskly 1 minute. Cool. Pour cooled mince meat into pastry shell. Bake at 425° for 20 minutes. In small bowl, combine eggs, sour cream, sugar, and vanilla. Pour over mince meat; sprinkle with nuts. Return to oven for 5 to 8 minutes or until sour cream mixture is almost set. Refrigerate for 1-1/2 hours or until top is firm. Serve cold. Refrigerate any leftovers.

MINCE-APPLE PIE

(Makes one 9-inch pie)

- 1 (9-inch) unbaked pastry shell
- 2 cooking apples, pared and sliced
- 1 (28-oz.) jar ready-to-use mince meat
- 1/4 cup flour
- 1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/4 cup chopped nuts

Arrange apple slices in pastry shell. Top with mince meat. In small bowl, combine flour, sugar, and cinnamon; cut in butter until crumbly. Add nuts. Sprinkle crumb mixture evenly over mince meat. Bake at 425° for 25 to 30 minutes.

True dedication

VOLUNTEERS from Steamboat Springs used shovels and sheet plastic Thursday to move snow out of the trees and onto the ski slopes in an intense effort to open the area for skiing Monday. BYU pits pass attack against Cowboys

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — One attacks by land, the other by air. And if offensive displays are your thing, the Tangerine Bowl matchup between Oklahoma State and Brigham Young could provide one of the more exciting post-season clashes.

Oklahoma State has a ground attack led by Terry Miller, a fleet, 196-pound running back who rolled up 1,541 yards and 19 touchdowns as the 14th-ranked Cowboys went 8-3 and won a chunk of the Big Eight crown.

Brigham Young, tied for 17th nationally, has rangy quarterback Clifford Nielsen, who led the nation in passing yardage with 3,192 and touchdowns with 29 while the Cougars went 9-2 and tied for the Western Athletic Conference title.

Miller and Nielsen, both juniors and second-team All America selections, were the only underclassmen among the top 10 vote-getters in the Helmsman Trophy competition, so the Tangerine Bowl could be a display for the top contenders for the 1977 prize.

The game begins at 8 p.m. EST Saturday in the renovated Tangerine Bowl stadium, which was expanded from 20,000 to 50,546 seats.

Some fans at a recent game said they were alarmed by the amount of sway in the new upper east deck.

But Orlando Public Safety

Director Howard McClain said the sway was normal and the deck is safe. The deck also was built at too shallow an angle for good viewing from some seats.

Tangerine Bowl officials feel this year's game is their best matchup ever as they strive to upgrade the bowl's image.

Brigham Young coach LaVell Edwards expects a "great challenge and a great opponent," adding that many coaches believe Oklahoma State is "indeed the best team in the Big Eight" this year.

Oklahoma State coach Jim Stanley said "we're scared to death, to put it mildly" about Nielsen's passing abilities and his receivers. He says the only passing team in the Big Eight was Nebraska, which beat the Cowboys 14-10.

While Miller and Nielsen are expected to provide offensive fireworks, there should be an equally interesting match in the depths of the line between Oklahoma State's 6-5, 200-pound defensive tackle Phillip Dokes and BYU's 6-7, 270-pound offensive tackle Dave Hubbard.

Oklahoma State's offensive line is anchored by 6-2, 250-pound first-team All America center Derrell Gofourth.

Rams have chance to square playoff score with Cowboys

By United Press International

The Dallas Cowboys embarrassed the Los Angeles Rams at the Coliseum in the National Football Conference title game last December to become the first wild card team ever to advance into the Super Bowl.

Now it is the Rams' turn.

Los Angeles plays Dallas Sunday in a first round playoff game but this time it is the Cowboys who are favored and have the home field advantage. Dallas disregarded the same two psychological advantages last year in dumping Los Angeles 37-7 for the right to play AFC champion Pittsburgh.

The Rams, with James Harris at quarterback in place of the injured Pat Haden, carry a 10-3-1 record into the game but the feeling in the organization is that the club has yet to reach its peak this year.

"We haven't played up to our expectations," said defensive tackle Merlin Olsen, a perennial all-pro who has already announced that this is his last season. "We've had our slumps and lapses and we made our share of mistakes. We had some great games and we've had some very poor ones."

"I hope the highest point of my career hasn't been attained yet. I hope that's when we're able to get into the Super Bowl at Pasadena and walk off the field as winners. That's the goal I want."

Reds swap Perez for two pitchers

CINCINNATI (UPI) — First baseman Tony Perez, on the trading block for more than two years, was dealt by the Cincinnati Reds to the Montreal Expos Thursday along with relief pitcher Willie McEnaney for pitchers Woody Fryman and Dale Murray.

Perez, a 12-year veteran, boasts a 233 career, batting average and has been the Reds' most consistent RBI man the past several years.

A team spokesman said the deal was complete after lengthy negotiations between the Reds and Expos. The talks began at the baseball winter meetings in Los Angeles last week.

Reds President Bob Howsam said in a prepared statement, "We are pleased to get Fryman and Murray. We needed another left-handed starter and in Fryman we have a veteran who knows how to pitch. Murray has been one of the top relief pitchers the last couple of years and both should add more balance to our pitching staff."

Howsam added that, "all of us at the Reds wish Tony nothing but the best. He has been a great player for the Reds."

The president said that in contract talks this fall, Perez had indicated he wanted to be played exclusively or else traded.

Howsam said it was important that "Danny Driessen be given the opportunity to play. Driessen has proven his ability as a hitter and both he and Perez are too talented and too valuable to the team to make platooning feasible."

Fryman, 36, has been in the major leagues 12 years, the last two at Montreal. He was 13-13 last year with a 3.38 ERA.

Murray, 26, led the National League with 31 appearances last year. He had a 4-9 record and a 3.27 ERA.

McEnaney, 24, was a 2-6 last year with a 4.87 ERA.

Campbell won't stay in Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Mike Campbell, an assistant to Coach Darrell Royal for 21 years, will not remain at Texas as a member of the staff of new Head Coach Fred Akers.

Campbell, Royal's first choice for the head coaching job, said, "I guess I'll get another job doing something."

Asked if he would remain as a member of Akers' staff, Campbell replied, "No, I wouldn't do that by any stretch of the imagination. I might stay with the university though. Years ago I got a letter when we were having all the good teams saying that if anything ever happened, they would give me a job equal to what I had."

Akers was selected as Royal's successor by a seven-member selection committee headed by UT President Dr. Loren Rogers.

Akers, 38, an assistant at Texas before going to Wyoming as head coach two years ago, was given a five-year contract at $45,000 annually.

He said he recommended former Longhorn assistant Leon Manley to succeed him at Wyoming, but said he hoped Manley would consider returning with him to Texas.

The Arkansas native, who was offensive coordinator at Texas before stepping into the Wyoming job, used a varied attack at Wyoming and indicated he will bring the same offensive plan to Texas.

Akers called Campbell Wednesday and offered him a job on the Longhorn staff, but Campbell declined.

Downhill racer on way to big win

SUN VALLEY — Sun Valley downhill ski racer, Barb Patterson may be on her way to a double win in both women's slalom and giant slalom at the Western Holiday Classic here.

Patterson won the slalom Wednesday with a combined time almost three seconds better than her closest competitor.

After one run in the women's giant slalom Thursday, Patterson was again in first place with a time of 81.74 seconds.

In the men's giant slalom Thursday, two Idaho skiers were battling for first place. After the first two runs of the course, Mike Morris, McCall, had combined time of 147.31 while Alan Patterson, Sun Valley, who won the slalom Wednesday, was just behind with a 147.88.

The Western Holiday Classic is the first Federation International (FIS) race to be held in the West this year in a series of Can-Am downhill races. It is the first time an FIS race has been held in Sun Valley since 1971.

Before winners will be known, skiers must still go through the course again today. The women will ski the giant slalom course set up on the Lower Warm Springs run on Bald Mountain one more time and the men must go through it twice more.

The winners will be determined by the best combined time.

By late Thursday night when race results were all in, Carol Hill, Crystal Mountain, Wash., was in second place in the women's giant slalom with a time of 82.48. Karen Lancaster, Lake Tahoe, Nev., held third place with an 82.95 time.

In the men's giant slalom, Scott Bowdler, Boise, who took a second in the men's slalom, was running third in the giant slalom with a combined time of 149.79.

'Illegal' books hurt Delaware

DOVER, Del. (UPI) — Delaware's unique professional football lottery began last September amid promises of big money for the state treasury and legal threats from the National Football League.

The football lottery ended its maiden season this week with its director leaving for a new job in New Jersey and charging that illegal bookies interfered with the game.

The game was billed as an easy way for the state to cash in on the popularity of professional football. Lottery Director Peter M. Simmons initially predicted that the state would reap $2 million. The actual net was about $200,000.

Simmons even tried to cancel some of the final week's bets when area newspapers quoted several bookmakers as saying the state had figured wrong in setting odds on five games.

Attorney General Richard Wier ordered the state to make good on the bets, costing the state $5,000.

"I didn't expect the illegal game to be so brutal. They were out with the firm purpose to kill it," said Simmons, who has already joined a New Jersey lottery consultant firm.

Last week's fiasco capped a season of false predictions and confusion for the football lottery, the nation's only state run sports betting operation.

Officials predicted a $200,000 a week handle, but it never surpassed the $22,000 bet the first week. The lottery took the low interest in NFL lawsuit and the newness of the game.

Big Ten invokes Michigan State penalty

CHICAGO (UPI) — Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke has sounded a warning to Michigan State's athletic department — no more rules violations or it will cost the Spartan program big money.

Duke placed MSU's football program on three years' probation Thursday for recruiting and financial aid violations, basically "concurring" with a "three-year-NCAA-probation" previously imposed on the school. The Big Ten's probation will last until Sept. 1, 1979. The NCAA penalty expires Jan. 18, 1979.

The Big Ten commissioner went a step further than the NCAA, warning that further infractions would cost MSU hundreds of thousands of dollars in television revenue.

At a news conference, Duke said the penalty was proposed by the university in the form of a "remedial action." He said the school agreed that if further "significant" violations occur during the probation period, the expiration date will be extended from Sept. 1, 1979 to Sept. 1, 1981, and the school will lose an estimated $350,000 per year in television revenue.

Also as part of the penalty, Duke said, the school agreed to dismiss former football Coach Denny Stolz, three of his assistants and former athletic director Burt Smith. It was the first disclosure that the departures of the coaching staff and Smith were demanded by the Big Ten.

MSU officials withheld comment on the announcement. Duke said the agreement provided that the university's athletic department be reorganized with the responsibility for its administration transferred to the office of MSU president Clifton Wharton. However, new athletic director Joseph Kearney will remain in his post.

The agreement also required that the school disassociate itself with two former representatives of its athletic interests, neither of whom were named in Duke's prepared statement. Duke said Big Ten investigators uncovered 37 violations during a 21-month investigation. Although many of them were minor, several were "willful violations," he said.

Duke said the dates of the Big Ten probation period differed from the NCAA dates because the information came from three separate sources, and because the Big Ten was delayed in its investigation by several legal actions.

During the period of probation, Duke said, the university must: "A) register each of the representatives of its athletic interests;

"B) Require that each of the representatives study annually the current Big Ten and NCAA rules;

"C) Make each member of its athletic department available on an annual basis for a conference seminar on Big Ten and NCAA recruiting and financial aid rules;

"D) Permit the conference to administer the signing of the athletes' statements of financial support and eligibility;

"E) Submit annually to the conference a detailed statement outlining information about its representatives of athletic interests and about each individual whom the university has recruited."
